Abstract: This proposed rule would change the current funding mechanism of the Fair Housing Assistance Program (FHAP) from a dual noncompetitive and competitive system to a single comprehensive noncompetitive funding mechanism. The new system will allow the same disbursement of 5 million dollars to substantially equivalent agencies. The FHAP agencies would be funded for cases processed and other eligible activities.

SUMMARY: This notice provides the semiannual agenda of rules scheduled for review or development between October 1987 and April 1988. An agenda is required by Executive Order 12291 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

ADDRESS: Unless otherwise indicated, all Agency Contacts are located at the Department of the Interior, 18th and C Streets, NW., Washington, DC 20240.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: All comments and inquiries with regard to these rules should be directed to the appropriate Agency Contact. General comments relating to the agenda should be directed to the Division of Directives and Regulatory Management, Office of Management Analysis, Department of the Interior, at the address above or on 202-343-6191.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: With this publication, the Department satisfies the requirement of Executive Order 12291 that the Department publish in April and October of each year an agenda of rules that have been issued or are expected to be issued, and currently effective rules that are scheduled for review.

Simultaneously, the Department meets the requirement of the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) that an agenda be published in April and October of each year identifying rules which will have significant economic effects on a substantial number of small entities; those rules which will have such effects are specifically identified in the agenda.

This agenda also identifies rules determined to be "significant" under Executive Order 12498 and which are included in this Department's 1988 regulatory program. A more comprehensive discussion of this program and the rules are contained in the Regulatory Program of the United States Government which is published by the Office of Management and Budget.

Dated: August 18, 1987.

1099. ● PROPOSED DETERMINATION OF NONESSENTIAL EXPERIMENTAL POPULATION STATUS FOR AN INTRODUCED POPULATION OF THE YELLOWFIN MADTOM IN VIRGINIA

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 17

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The Service proposes to reintroduce a small catfish, the yellow madtom (Noturus flavipinnis), into the North Fork Holston River, Smyth County, Virginia, and determine this population to be a nonessential experimental population according to Section 10(j) of the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended. The Yellowfin madtom once likely inhabited many of the lower gradient streams of the Tennessee River basin upstream of Chattanooga, Tennessee. Presently, populations are confined to only three stream reaches in the Tennessee River Valley. This action is being taken in an effort to reestablish the yellowfin madtom within its historic range.

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1531

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 017

Legal Deadline: Statutory. In accordance with 16 USC 1533, the Service must take action (list, withdraw, or extend the rulemaking for six months) on a proposed listing no later than one year after such proposal.

Abstract: Regulations will be developed which would list, reclassify, or delist, as appropriate certain species of fish, wildlife and plants under the Endangered Species Act, and where prudent, would identify critical habitat for endangered and threatened species. Such actions are taken upon determination that species are endangered, threatened, or neither and are based solely on the biological information available to the Department.

1117. ● PROPOSED DETERMINATION OF EXPERIMENTAL POPULATION STATUS FOR AN INTRODUCED POPULATION OF COLORADO SQUAWFISH

Legal Authority: 16 USC 1531 et seq

CFR Citation: 50 CFR 17

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The Service proposes to introduce Colorado squawfish (Ptychocheilus lucius) into the lower Colorado River in Arizona and to determine the population to be "nonessential experimental" population according to Section 10(j) of the Endangered Species Act. The Service will propose a special rule to allow take in accordance with State law. In the past, Colorado squawfish were more widespread in the State of Arizona, occurring in several river drainages. This action is being taken in an effort to establish an additional population within the species' historic range.

Originally scheduled: April 1985. E.O. 12291: These rules are major because of the economic values associated with migratory game bird hunting; however, the need to obtain and consider the latest population data for these migratory birds requires that the regulatory schedule be shortened. The regulatory impact analysis, as required by E.O. 12291, and the small entity flexibility analysis, as required by 5 U.S.C. 601 et seq., have been combined into one analysis as provided for by both authorities. These are necessary to supplement and implement the Federal Acquisition Regulation and the Department of the Interior Acquisition Regulation. This will provide standard contractual language for provisions and clauses not otherwise available in the Federal or Interior regulations that are needed by our operational contracting activities. Abstract: As mandated by the "Mining In The Parks Act of 1976," the NPS promulgated its existing regulations to assure that operations on valid mining claims within units of the National Park System are conducted so as to prevent or minimize damage to park resources. The experience gained by the application of these regulations over the past eight years indicates that certain adjustments are now necessary to clarify and simplify the existing regulatory language and to improve the management of mineral resources within NPS units. Specifically, several sections of the current regulations either have proven difficult to interpret or pertain to a surface disturbance moratorium that expired in 1980 thus rendering them obsolete.

1177. APPEALS FROM ADMINISTRATIVE ACTIONS

Legal Authority: 5 USC 301; 25 USC 2; 25 USC 9

CFR Citation: 25 CFR 2

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The present administrative appeal regulations are ambiguous and misleading. It is difficult to tell what issues may be appealed and to whom the appeal should be sent. Most deadlines are uncertain. Those that are certain are often unrealistic. It is also unclear when a final decision will be rendered by the Interior Board of Indian Appeals and when it will be rendered by the Assistant Secretary for Indian Affairs. Alternatives will be developed by reviewing the existing appeal regulations of other agencies. Consideration will be given to specifying which types of appeals go to the Assistant Secretary and which to the Board. The alternative of providing for the Assistant Secretary to make a case-by-case decision whether or not to refer the matter to the Board will also be considered. The primary benefit should be reduced frustration for both appellants and the BIA officials who handle the appeals. The greatest cost may be that both appellants and BIA officials may have to comply with more specified procedures and meet more deadlines in order for the system to work.

Abstract: Indian reservation road construction is funded from the Highway Trust Fund. Other provisions include a requirement for proper maintenance of roads, applications of the "Buy Indian" and Indian Self Determination Acts, and joint program management by the Secretaries of Interior and Transportation. These changes in the law make changes in regulations imperative. The no-action alternative would leave program managers with outdated guidelines. Cost of the action will be minimal and it imposes no burden on the public. Benefits will be a better ordered road construction and maintenance program on Indian reservations, greater management efficiency, and clarity of procedures for federal managers, legislators and tribal officials. Abstract: The Bureau of Indian Affairs is amending the pertinent sections of the regulations governing charges and costs assessed the electric power customers for the electric power, energy and associated electric power services provided by the San Carlos Indian Irrigation (Project), Arizona. The purpose of the regulatory amendments is to increase the costs to the public for the services provided by the electric power division of the Project. The proposed rules increase the electric power assessment rates in the residential and general service rate schedules. This action causes the generation of needed additional revenues for the Project. The increased assessment rates reflect the increased operating costs associated with labor, equipment and supplies. The electric power bills for service under the residential and general rate schedules will be increased by approximately 12.4 percent.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 25 USC 81; 25 USC 415; 25 USC 301

CFR Citation: 25 CFR 287

Abstract: The Bureau of Indian Affairs is proposing a new rule which establishes the requirements to be met and procedures to be followed to obtain approval of management contracts for tribal gaming enterprises. This action is necessary because the federal courts have held that such management contracts are null and void without Secretarial approval pursuant to 25 U.S.C. 81. The intended effect of this rule is to replace the administrative guidelines previously announced by the Bureau for approval of such contracts and to establish uniform minimum standards for the review and approval of all such gaming management contracts.

Abstract: The Bureau of Indian Affairs proposes to revise the rule concerning the circumstances under which the Bureau of Indian Affairs, in the performance of the Federal Government's trust responsibility to Indian tribes, may, in its discretion, provide Departmental funds to an Indian tribe or other Indian organization for the payment of a private attorney's legal services. The proposed revisions would not change the underlying policy of the current rule which is to pay for private counsel to represent Indian tribes only in exceptional circumstances. The principal changes involve representation in child custody proceedings, services of tribal court personnel, and non-litigation services. The proposed revision would also provide that when trust resources are involved, tribes and individual Indian allottees are eligible to apply for and receive Federally appropriated funds under 25 CFR 89.

Additional Information: In May 1982, the District Court for the District of Arizona invalidated the regulation of 25 CFR 167 and ordered the Bureau to publish new regulations. The Bureau published interim regulations on Hopi partitioned lands on September 8, 1982. During the past year several meetings have been held with the Navajo Tribe to obtain concurrence to include Navajo partitioned land in the regulations. The Navajo Tribe expressed the desire for separate regulations and Bureau has drafted a new regulation for Navajo Partitioned Land within the existing 25 CFR Part 167.

Legal Authority: 5 USC 301; 25 USC 323 to 328

CFR Citation: 25 CFR 169

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The Bureau of Indian Affairs intends to amend several sections of its rights-of-way regulations which impose a variety of specific requirements on grantees of rights-of-way over Indian lands. These requirements were intended to implement public laws enacted around the turn of the century which authorized the Secretary of the Interior to issue rights-of-way for various specific purposes. In 1948 Congress gave the Department comprehensive authority to grant rights-of-way for any purpose or any term of years without the antiquated restrictions of the older statutes. The regulations continue to reflect the old requirements and the result has been inconsistent application of the 1948 Act. The removal or revisions of these sections would end that practice.

Abstract: The interim rule will provide regulations governing hunting of big and small game on the Wind River Indian Reservation in Wyoming, to conserve, protect and increase the currently depleted populations. No alternative actions for addressing the problem are being considered. The program will be confined to a localized area, and economic effects will be relatively insignificant. Benefits will be conservation of existing populations through reduced hunting mortality. Costs for personnel and equipment to enforce the regulations are estimated at $235,000 for the first year and $200,000 annually thereafter, to be derived by reallocation of existing funding.

Abstract: It is proposed that 25 CFR 249, Subpart B, Fraser River Convention Sockeye and Pink Salmon Fishery, be removed as a result of the United States and Canada entering into a new treaty on January 28, 1985, which terminated both the 1930 Convention and the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission (IPSFC). Based on the 1985 treaty, there is no longer a need for this subpart. In 1986, and thereafter, the fishery will be governed by the regulations adopted by the Fraser River Panel and approved by the State Department and by Tribal regulations that are consistent with the Fraser River Panel regulations.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 43 USC 1334

CFR Citation: 30 CFR 250.57

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: Amendments to the DOI Air Quality regulation for oil and gas operations will be proposed for Outer Continental Shelf areas adjacent to California. The changes would provide additional safeguards for those pollutants which could be critical to air quality in the region. A determination of potential costs and benefits cannot be made until responses to the Advance Notice of Proposed Rulemaking are analyzed. The DOI has conducted a conflict assessment to determine the likelihood of the interested and affected parties being able to reach an agreement on an air quality regulatory program. If the affected parties involved can develop a mutually agreeable set of requirements, then DOI will initiate rulemaking based on that agreement.

Abstract: This rulemaking is needed to add new regulations covering recoupment and refunds of excess payments made under Federal offshore mineral leases which are subject to section 10 of the Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act of 1953 (OCSLA), 43 USC 1339. This rule would establish requirements and guidelines for crediting (recouping) excess payments of royalties, rentals, bonuses, or other amounts against a current or future payment obligation or refunding such excess payment to any person lawfully entitled to receive a refund or credit for an overpayment made under an offshore lease. Significance: Regulatory Program

CFR Citation: 30 CFR 281

Abstract: Proposes the desirability of new regulations to govern lease issuance on the Outer Continental Shelf (OCS) for minerals other than oil, gas, and sulphur under the authority of the OCS Lands Act; and requests comments and recommendations from interested parties. Alternative is to not have leasing requirements in regulations. Promulgation of regulation for leasing of hard mineral resources is not expected to add to the cost to industry. 1242. CHANGE EFFECTIVE DATE OF ADOPTED MODIFICATIONS TO NTL-5

Legal Authority: 30 USC 1701 et seq

CFR Citation: 30 CFR 206

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The Minerals Management Service (MMS) published a Notice in the Federal Register on July 25, 1986 (51 FR 26759), to modify Notice to Lessees Number 5 (NTL-5) to provide more flexibility in valuing for royalty purposes, natural gas produced from onshore Federal and Indian leases. The modification was effective on August 1, 1986. However, MMS has received many complaints from industry that the prospective August 1, 1986, effective date of the modification, in some cases, leads to results which are unreasonable and contrary to applicable mineral leasing laws. Consequently, MMS proposes to make the effective date retroactive to a date to be established based on comments received.

Abstract: The Royalty-In-Kind provisions of these rules, some of which were transferred from the Department of Energy, will be revised in order to simplify and streamline the Federal Government's process for selling its royalty crude oil. The contents of existing 30 CFR 208 and 30 CFR 209 will be combined at new 30 CFR 208. 30 CFR 209 will be removed. Abstract: The rules at 30 CFR Part 256 will be revised to provide for supplemental sales and to establish limits on those supplemental sales. This rule is intended to allow the offering of rejected bid blocks, drainage blocks, and development blocks. The alternative is to operate under the current regulation and delay the leasing of certain blocks which may be critical to the development of an area or may be susceptible to loss of hydrocarbons.

Legal Authority: 43 USC 1863; 43 USC 1331 et seq; 42 USC 2000d to 2000e

CFR Citation: 30 CFR 271

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: There are no provisions in current Minerals Management Service regulations which provide a mechanism for remedy of unlawful discrimination in Outer Continental Shelf (OCS) employment. Rules would be developed to provide a process whereby persons who believed they had been denied employment because of unlawful discrimination would have a forum. These rules would implement the purposes of section 604 of the OCS Lands Act Amendment of 1978. Alternatives considered are no action, issuance of a policy statement and no rules, and proposal of extensive affirmative action rules similar to those rescinded in the past. Very few complaints are expected to arise as there has been no evidence of discrimination to date. Therefore, costs are expected to be minimal. Benefits would be the assurance that the requirements of section 604 are being fully carried out.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 43 USC 1334

CFR Citation: 30 CFR 280

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: Proposes the desirability of new regulations to govern exploration on the Outer Continental Shelf (OCS) for minerals other than oil, gas, and sulphur under the authority of the OCS Lands Act; and requests comments and recommendations from interested parties. Alternative is to specify requirements in a permitting document rather than in regulations. Promulgation of regulations is not expected to result in costs significantly more than those incurred through the unregulated use of good commercial practices. The rules will require that hard mineral operations will be conducted in a manner which will ensure safety and protection of the environment.

Legal Authority: 30 USC 1701 et seq

CFR Citation: 30 CFR 216.40; 30 CFR 218.40

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: Current assessments, in some instances, are out of line with costs and the nature of the error. This burden on industry must be relieved as soon as possible. The assessment regulations in 30 CFR 216.40 and 218.40 reserve to the Minerals Management Service (MMS) the discretion whether or not to assess a reporter. However, the existing regulations do not give MMS any flexibility in determining the amount of assessment per line--it must be $10. After experience in making such assessments, MMS has determined that it must be able to vary the amount of the assessments. Therefore, MMS is amending the regulations that relate to the Auditing and Financial System (AFS) reporting in 30 CFR 218.40 and the regulations that relate to the Production Accounting and Auditing System (PAAS) reporting in 30 CFR 216.40 to provide that the assessment will be an amount "up to $10" for each report as defined in the respective regulations.

Abstract: Regulation for providing information and claiming rewards is needed to implement section 113 of the Federal Oil and Gas Royalty Management Act of 1982. No procedures are established on rewards. Rules would be developed to provide a process whereby persons having information on royalty or other payments owed to the United States could provide information and claim rewards. Alternatives considered are no action, issue a policy statement and no rule, or perform an extensive study. Very few information submissions and claims for rewards are expected as there is minimal interest to date. Therefore, costs are expected to be insignificant. Benefits would be assurance that the requirements of section 113 are being implemented and informants can provide information on amounts owed to the United States. Additional revenue is expected to be recovered.

Abstract: The Minerals Management Service (MMS) is proposing to amend 30 CFR 218 to change the threshold from $50,000 to $10,000 for royalty, bonus, and rental payments required to be made by Electronic Fund Transfer (EFT). This action would accelerate the collection and deposit cycle for MMS since payments under $50,000 are now made in the form of checks. Abstract: Proposes to establish procedures to obtain testimony from witnesses or persons who have knowledge of serious accidents, fires, blowouts, or spills that occurred during oil and gas and sulphur operations in the Outer Continental Shelf. The testimony would help accident investigation panels to determine the cause or probable cause of an accident under investigation. The procedures would facilitate meetings of

1255. TERMINATION OF JURISDICTION UNDER SMCRA

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 30 USC 1201 et seq

CFR Citation: 30 CFR 700.11

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act (SMCRA) does not specifically define the cutoff point at which a person's reclamation obligations are absolved, therefore a rule is needed to specify when liability is terminated. The significant and sensitive nature of this issue warrants rulemaking to resolve the issue of when a person's liability under SMCRA ends. The regulations in question are specific to the responsibilities of the Depart. of the Interior, OSMRE, and they implement SMCRA. No other Federal agency is authorized to undertake this action on behalf of the Department. OSMRE has never addressed this issue in a rulemaking. The regulatory authority will issue a written determination ending liability under the Act where the following conditions apply. For permanent program operations it proposes to terminate an operator's liability under the Act at the time of final bond release where all applicable regulatory program requirements have been met. For initial program operations, liability will end where all requirements of the Act and regulations have been met.

Legal Authority: 30 USC 1201 et seq; PL 100-34

Abstract: Section 528(2) of the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977, exempted from the requirements of the Act "the extraction of coal for commercial purposes where the surface mining operation affects two acres or less." On May 7, 1987, the President signed Pub. L. 100-34 which repealed the exemption. The rule action would remove the exemption provision from the regulations at 30 CFR 700.

Abstract: The rule will codify the definition of the phrase "in connection with" as used in the definition of surface coal mining operations at 30 CFR 700.5. Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 30 USC 1201 et seq

Abstract: This proposed rule would respond to a ruling by the District Court for the District of Columbia which stated that the definition of farming and agricultural activities were not equal as it related to Alluvial Valley Floors as defined in OSM's regulations. The Court ordered that the definition be repromulgated in a manner consistent with Congressional intent. Abstract: The regulation will address the sections that were remanded back to OSM by the action of the Court and modify some provisions that are confusing in the existing file. The changes will provide additional guidance to the surface coal mine operator in fulfilling the performance standards of the Act. Costs will not be increased because the regulations will amplify existing requirements.

Abstract: The proposed rule will amend the definition of the term support facilities as a result of the District Court for the District of Columbia's opinion of July 6, 1984. The proposed regulation would bring additional support facilities under the Permanent Program Regulations of the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act and amend the definition of support facility to connote a functional relationship with a regulated facility. Legal Authority: 30 USC 1202; 30 USC 1211; 30 USC 1278

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The current limiting language in 30 CFR Part 707 can have at least three adverse results for the Abandoned Mine Lands (AML) Program. The inability to remove incidental amounts of coal encountered during reclamation activities can result in: 1) the loss of a valuable energy resource, 2) a no-cost subsidy of a future mining operation, and 3) a windfall profit to the mineral owner. In addition, the Federal and State governments are unable to reduce the costs of their AML projects. Participation in the incidental recovery of coal and resulting reduction in reclamation costs would allow the Federal and State AML programs to accomplish more reclamation at a substantial saving. To correct these deficiencies and to allow greater flexibility for the AML Program to remove incidental amounts of coal encountered during AML-financed reclamation activities, the clarification and expansion of Parts 707 and 874 is being proposed.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 30 USC 1201 et seq

Abstract: The proposed rule would comply with a court order of the District Court for the District of Columbia which remanded OSM reporting requirements for surface coal exploration. The proposed rule would revise existing requirements to include the filing of a notice by all individuals or operators planning coal exploration, and specify the information required on applications for coal exploration. The obligation to report is a standing requirement of existing regulations. This rule would expand the requirement to report. Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the definition of the phrase "substantial legal and financial commitments" as required by a District Court decision in Round III of the present litigation on OSMRE's permanent program regulations. The definition will clarify what is needed for a determination of a "substantial legal and financial commitment" in a surface coal mining operation. Such a determination would exempt land from a designation as unsuitable for surface coal mining operations.

1269. ● PERMIT PROCESSING

Legal Authority: 30 USC 1201 et seq

CFR Citation: 30 CFR 773.11

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The proposed rule would require operators of surface coal mining operations who operated during the initial regulatory program without a permit to cease mining until they secure a permanent program permit. Only operators who held initial program permits may continue to operate after the Secretary has approved a State regulatory program, if they have submitted an application for a permanent program permit. The proposed rule responds to a remand of previously proposed regulation, in which the U.S. District Court concluded that the rule was inconsistent with the statute.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 30 USC 1201 et seq

CFR Citation: 30 CFR 780.21(f); 30 CFR 784.14(e)

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The rule sets a life of permit as the parameter for the determination of the probable hydrologic consequences (PHC) of the proposed operation upon the quality and quantity of surface and groundwater under seasonal flow conditions for the proposed permit and adjacent areas. The rule re-promulgates the suspended 1983 rules with an expanded preamble and record to support the rule language. This was requested by the Court as a result of litigation. The rule will result in lower costs to industry and a reduction in their information collection requirements.

Abstract: The proposed rule would clarify the applicability of the prohibitions in section 522(e)(4) a· d (5) of the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act to the surface impacts of underground mining. The issue of the relationship between section 522(e) and mining related subsidence will be addressed in the proposed rulemaking. The rulemaking will seek to clarify whether OSM's rules have the effect of prohibiting underground mining operations related to the features and facilities within the distance limitations enumerated in sections 522(e)(4) and (5) of the Act. The proposed rulemaking will address the issue of what is a "Surface Impact" incident to an underground mine.

Additional Information: The Office of Surface Mining has determined that the proposed rulemaking constitutes a major Federal action requiring an EIS to meet the requirements of the National Environmental Policy Act. OSM has also made the determination that the proposed rule may be significant within the meaning of E.O. 12291. Precise cost/price impacts cannot be determined prior to further development of the regulation, but such costs are anticipated to be significant in terms of E.O. 12291 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act. Therefore, a Preliminary Regulatory Impact Analysis and Small Entity Flexibility Analysis are being prepared.

1272. REQUIREMENTS FOR PERMITS FOR SPECIAL CATEGORIES OF MINING; EXPERIMENTAL PRACTICES

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 30 USC 1201 et seq

CFR Citation: 30 CFR 785.13

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The proposed rule would revise the permit application requirements applicable to experimental practices as provided by section 711 of SMCRA. Section 711 allows for departures from the environmental protection performance standards of section 515 and 516 of the Act. The rule would be revised to encourage advances in mining and reclamation practices and special alternative postmining land uses. No additional costs to the environment would occur because experimental practices cannot be authorized if they are not as environmentally protective as the requirements of section 515 and 516. The rule revision may provide coal mine operators the ability to utilize more cost efficient mining and reclamation practices. OSMRE is discussing experimental practice issues with external groups. The scope of future rulemaking action will be developed following these discussions.

Abstract: This rule is being proposed in response to an order of the U.S. District Court remanding several aspects of OSM regulations concerning revegetation which has inadequate support in the administrative record. OSM will propose rules concerning replanting of trees as a normal husbandry practice, the period for revegetation success, and rills and gullies control as a normal conservation practice. Abstract: The regulation will address the issue addressed in a district court challenge to OSM regulations. The rule will address the problem of combination spillways and will specify a spillway configuration that must be installed to safely pass the designed precipitation event. In some cases, the rule may allow one spillway to serve as a combination principal and emergency spillway. Legal Authority: 30 USC 1201 et seq

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The regulations at 30 CFR 816.74/817.74 allow, with the approval of the regulatory authority, the disposal of excess spoil through placement on preexisting benches provided that the standards set forth in sections 816.71/817.71 are met. These standards contain the general requirements for the disposal of excess spoil. Based on the draft study entitled "Encouraging Abandoned Mine Land Reclamation via Remining: A Federal, State and Industry Initiative" and comments received, OSMRE has reviewed these regulations. Based on this review, OSMRE has concluded that excess spoil, when placed on the benches is similar to backfilling and grading of a highwall and bench and therefore could be regulated under the backfilling and grading regulations in section 816.102/817.102, in lieu of the "excess spoil" standards while maintaining the same environmental and safety standards. The proposed rule would apply the backfilling and grading requirements to disposal of excess spoil on preexisting benches.

Legal Authority: 30 USC 1201 et seq

CFR Citation: 30 CFR 842.11; 30 CFR 843.12

Abstract: The proposed rule would provide guidance to OSMRE in its evaluation of State responses to ten day notices. It would provide that OSMRE must accept a State's response as constituting appropriate action to cause a violation to be corrected or showing good cause for such failure, unless that response is arbitrary, capricious, or an abuse of discretion under the State program. The rule would also provide a mechanism whereby a State could seek informal review within OSMRE of an initial decision to inspect a mine site when OSMRE rejects the State's response to the ten day notice. The rulemaking is being proposed in response to a decision on a petition for rulemaking submitted to the Director, OSMRE.

Abstract: Cases have been identified where coal mine operators have also contracted with a State to conduct reclamation of abandoned mine land. This reclamation is conducted under the Abandoned Mine Land (AML) Reclamation Program and is funded by fees paid by coal operators on productions. Under the proposed rule, a reclamation contract could not be let to an operator with certain outstanding violations of the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act. The violations would include outstanding cessation orders and unpaid civil penalties and abandoned mine reclamation fees. The rule action is being initiated to prevent operators in violation of SMCRA from benefiting from the Act by receiving contracts funded under the AML program.

Abstract: The Surface Mining Act exempts mining operations that extract other minerals where coal does not exceed 16 2/3 percent of tonnage of minerals removed for sale. Evidence of abuse of this exemption has been identified. Proposed regulations would establish procedures to administer the exemption. The costs of compliance for these operations are undetermined. Benefits would be to the public in terms of protection of health, safety, and environment from detrimental effects of mining. Legitimate noncoal operators would be able to compete fairly with those operations now using the exemption to undersell their legitimate competitors.

Abstract: The proposed rule amends the rules for "Permits for Special Categories of Mining -- Mountaintop Removal Mining." This action will correct an inadvertent error whereby certain substantive provisions concerning mountaintop removal mining in the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977 (the Act) were not included in previous implementing regulations. These provisions include a finding for permit issuance that the applicant has presented specific plans for the proposed postmining land use and has made appropriate assurances for the use. The addition of these provisions will make the rules for mountaintop removal mining consistent with the Act, as well as with the Secretary's brief In Re: Permanent Surface Mining Regulation Litigation II, (round III). The requirements of the proposed rule will ensure that all the substantive provisions of the Act are applied to mountaintop removal coal mining operations.

1294. REQUIREMENT TO RELEASE PERFORMANCE BONDS

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 30 USC 1201 et seq

CFR Citation: 30 CFR 800-40(a)(2)

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: This proposed rule would require that an applicant for bond release include the name of the permittee in the application. This action is being taken as a result of a commitment made during litigation on bonding requirements before the District Court for the District of Columbia where it was found that an explicit requirement for providing the name of the applicant was necessary. Also the proposed revision would allow certain third parties to guarantee self-bond. This action is being taken as a result of OSMRE on June 13, 1986 accepting a proposal to revise self-bonding regulations sought in a petition for rulemaking by the National Coal Association/American Mining Congress (NCA/AMC) Joint Committee on Surface Mine Regulations. There will be no increase or decrease in the cost/benefits of this rule.

Abstract: The rulemaking is in response to a challenge of this issue in District Court where the Office agreed to suspend 30 CFR 817.41(b)(2), concerning requirement to restore groundwater recharge capacity, and repromulgate the rule to develop the administrative records. OSM will propose two options: (1) removing 817.41(b)(2) and (2) retaining this paragraph while asking for comments concerning its legality, technological validity, and environmental impacts. Since this rule will be repromulgated with options, a determination of its potential costs and benefits cannot be assessed until comments are received and options chosen.

Final Rule Stage

Abstract: These regulations are being revised as ordered by the District Court for the District of Columbia. They will amend OSM's permanent program performance standards with respect to prime farmlands by allowing last cut lakes to remain after mining is complete only where they are beneficial or necessary to agricultural activity and allowing for a support facility exemption only for underground mines. These changes are mandated by Court Order, thus, no alternatives to this action are being considered.

1297. COLLECTION OF AML FEES - MOISTURE CONTENT OF COAL

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 30 USC 1201 et seq

CFR Citation: 30 CFR 870

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The present regulations require the weight of coal (for the purpose of calculating the tonnage upon which the AML fee is calculated) to be determined at the point of first sale. This weight includes not only that of the saleable coal, but also that of the extraneous material including the moisture content. Recent action by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) issued a revenue-ruling for the Black Lung Tax to allow for the deduction of a moisture content allowance from the tonnage upon which the Black Lung Tax is collected. The IRS decision to make this change in its regulations was based on a Federal court decision. Taft Coal Co. v. U.S., 605 F. Supp. 366, (N.D. Ala. 1984). OSMRE proposes to change the existing regulations to create a standard moisture allowance which would be consistent with that allowed by the IRS for the Black Lung Tax program. Regulations dealing with the basis upon which a tax or fee is assessed should be consistent for administrative convenience and equity to the coal operator. Federal action is required since OSMRE is directly responsible for collecting the AML fee and for establishing the regulations promulgating (cont)

Abstract: The proposed rule will revise the 1983 definition of "coal preparation or coal processing" which was formulated on the basis of OSMRE's previous interpretation of Section 701(28)(A) of the Act. In accordance with the District Court of the District of Columbia decision, OSMRE would adopt a new definition which would include chemical or physical processing or cleaning, concentrating or other processing or preparation of coal. Facilities not involving separation of coal from its impurities would be included within this definition. The definition of coal preparation plant will be revised to track the new definition of "coal preparation." Also the definition of support facilities will be removed from this rule and proposed separately. The proposed rule for coal preparation plants would bring on a large number of additional facilities under the jurisdiction of SMCRA therefore adding to environmental protection and could impose added costs to industry.

1300. PERMANENT REGULATORY PROGRAM DEFINITIONS

Legal Authority: 30 USC 1201 et seq

CFR Citation: 30 CFR 701.5

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The proposed rulemaking is in response to a court order of the District Court for the District of Columbia which remanded the portion of OSM's definition of "affected area" relating to the description and inclusion of roads in "affected areas." The proposed regulation will address alternative definitions and descriptions of roads as part of the definition of "affected areas" and clarify the relationship of these terms to various provisions of the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977. OSM is unable at this time to determine precisely what additional costs would be associated with the rule. It should be minimal, however, as this rule is intended only to identify the limitations on roads to be included in surface mining operations. The definition of "affected area" was suspended insofar as it excludes roads which are included in the definition of "surface coal mining operations" (November 20, 1986; 51 FR 41952). Additional rulemaking action is suspended pending review of issues related to the two-acre exemption provision of the Act. The exemption was repealed May 7, 1987, by Public Law 100-34 (June 4, 1987; 52 FR 21228).

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 30 USC 1201 et seq

CFR Citation: 30 CFR 701.5; 30 CFR 773

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: This rulemaking action is in response to a Court Order by the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia In re: Permanent Surface Mining Regulation Litigation II, July 15, 1985. The proposed regulation would amend the definition of previously mined area to include only those lands mined prior to May 3, 1978, or prior to January 1, 1979 for certain small operators exempted under 30 CFR 710.12, and not reclaimed to the standards of the Act. This rule may lead to a reduction of environmental benefits since there will be less incentive for remining and reclamation of mines abandoned after May 3, 1978. Otherwise, there is no significant increase or decrease in costs.

1302. CRITERIA FOR DESIGNATING AREAS AS UNSUITABLE FOR MINING OPERATIONS FRAGILE AND HISTORIC

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 30 USC 1201 et seq

CFR Citation: 30 CFR 762.5

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The objection to the definitions of the terms "fragile lands" and "historic lands" in 762.5 is their requirement that damage from proposed mining to historic and other values must be irreparable or permanent before lands can be classified as fragile or historic and therefore, eligible for consideration as being unsuitable for mining. The court order requires only a finding of significant damage, in accordance with Section 522(a)(3)(b) of the Act. In as much as the required wording "significant damage" is used in 762.11(b)(2) in the fragile-or-historic-lands criterion for designating lands as unsuitable, rather than using the wording of the two definitions, the proposed rule change would remove the degree-of-damage requirement from the definitions and thereby remove the wording objected to. The cost and benefits would remain unchanged because a finding of only significant damage and the combined term are already in place in 762.11(b)(2).

Legal Authority: 30 USC 1201 et seq

Abstract: The proposed rule would clarify what land is eligible for abandoned mine land reclamation funding. Under existing regulations, abandoned mine land reaffected after August 3, 1977, the date of enactment of Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act, is ineligible for reclamation funding. The Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement believes that non-eligibility for reclamation funding places an undue hardship on surrounding communities. The rule would allow expenditure of Abandoned Mine Land Reclamation Funds if such projects meet certain specific criteria in order to restore affected environments.

Abstract: Under the Reclamation Reform Act (RRA) of 1982, districts and individuals have the option of coming under the acreage limitation provisions of the new law or remaining subject to those of prior Reclamation law. Section 203(b) of the RRA provides that districts have 4 1/2 years from the date of enactment of the RRA to amend their existing repayment and water service contracts to come under the RRA provisions. After April 12, 1987, individuals in nonamending districts will be required to pay full cost for water supplied to leased land in excess of 160 acres.

1355. NATURAL RESOURCE DAMAGE ASSESSMENT - TYPE B AMENDMENTS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 9651(c)(1) CERCLA as amended

CFR Citation: 43 CFR 11

Legal Deadline: Statutory, April 17, 1987. SARA calls for any necessary amendments to be prepared within 6 months of enactment of SARA (Oct. 17, 1986).

Abstract: CERCLA allows trustees of natural resources that have been damaged by a release of a hazardous substance or a discharge of oil to bring a claim against the potentially responsible party of the Superfund. Section 301(c) requires the development of regulations for the assessment of damages to natural resources. Two sets of regulations are required by the Act: a set of simplified procedures that require minimal field investigations, referred to as the type A procedures, and a set of alternative procedures for the testing, sampling, and valuing of natural resource damages, referred to as the type B procedures. The Superfund Amendments and Reauthorization Act of 1986 (SARA), enacted on October 17, 1986, amended certain sections of CERCLA that pertain to natural resource damages and the Section 301(c) damage assessment regulations. This submittal covers the amendments required to the Section 301(c) damage assessment regulations.

1356. NATURAL RESOURCE DAMAGE ASSESSMENTS

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 9651(c) CERCLA

CFR Citation: 43 CFR 11

Legal Deadline: Judicial, March 15, 1987. Judicial deadline requires statement concerning special resources by 3/15/87

Abstract: In the natural resource damage assessment regulations, published as a proposed rule 12/20/85, there was an exception proposed to the general common law rule of damages (that damages are calculated as the lesser of: restoration or replacement costs; or diminution of use value) for a certain class of resources called "special resources," those resources were viewed as requiring special protection. Due to the large number of diverse comments on this issue, the "special resources" exception was deleted from the final type B rule (published on 08/01/86) and further comments were requested. This submittal is to address those comments and the issue of special resources.

Legal Authority: 8 USC 1101 (a)(15)(B); 8 USC 1184

CFR Citation: 8 CFR 214.2(b)

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: This notice announces the intent of the Immigration and Naturalization Service ("the Service") to set forth, in regulatory form, the special requirements for admission, extension and maintenance of status of nonimmigrant alien visitors for business and visitors for pleasure. Much of the Service's written policy relating to this subject is now contained in the Service's Operations Instructions at O.I. 214.2(b). Because it is more appropriate for interpretations and rules to be set forth in regulatory form, this information will become part of 8 CFR 214. In addition, the proposed rulemaking will clarify the criteria for according B-1 classification to members of certain occupations (such as participants in religious programs and members of foreign film crews). By issuing this advance notice, the Service is providing an opportunity to the public to submit comments and make suggestions at an earlier stage of the process. This will result in a proposed rule which is more comprehensive in its scope and more understandable to the public.

Legal Authority: 8 USC 1101; 8 USC 1184

Abstract: The Immigration and Naturalization Service ("the Service") proposes to restrict the types of situations under which an alien may apply for an extension of stay as a nonimmigrant visitor for pleasure (B-2). Faced with ever-increasing adjudications caseloads and with resources which fail to keep pace with those increases, the Service must continually seek ways to carry out its responsibilities in a more efficient manner. By limiting the situations under which a visitor for pleasure may seek an extension of stay, the Service will decrease the amount of resources which must be dedicated to this area and will be able to increase its efforts in other areas having higher priority.

Legal Authority: 8 USC 1103; 31 USC 9701

CFR Citation: 8 CFR 103.7

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The Immigration and Nationalization Service ("the Service") entertains numerous requests for Verification of Information from INS Service Records, via Form G-641. This form has been misused as a substitute document, while other INS documents are being prepared (i.e.: I-94, I-551 or Certificate of Naturalization or Citizenship). Should an applicant need to have his or her status verified while waiting for one of these documents to be processed, and such verification can be satisfied by obtaining a copy of a document (Certified if necessary), an FOIA/PA request can be made. If verification is needed to obtain a benefit and a copy will not suffice, the agency needing verification can make a direct request to the INS and it will be handled as appropriate.

Discontinuing the use of Form G-641 will also eliminate the need to request Form G-350, Certification of Birth Data. Requests for this document are minimal since foreign-born children are issued an alien registration receipt card or a citizenship document by INS and no other form of identification should be necessary.

Legal Authority: 8 USC 1103; 8 USC 1321

CFR Citation: 8 CFR 271

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: It has long been the contention of owners of international bridges that sufficient safeguards to fine procedures were lacking in the statutory language of Section 271 (8 U.S.C. 1321) of the Immigration and Nationality Act, as amended. The Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, Public Law 99-603 Part B at Section 114 provides amelioration to some degree of this contention. This regulation provides for an inspection by the Attorney General, at the request of owners and operators of facilities which provide a means for the unlawful entry of aliens into the United States. If a determination is made that adequate measures have been taken by the owners to prevent such unlawful entry, the owners will be relieved from liability to fine proceedings as long as the facility remains in the condition in which approved.

Abstract: Section 101(b) subsection 205 of the Department of Justice Appropriation Act, 1987 (P.L. 99-591) establishes the collection, payment, and remittance of a specific user fee for the Immigration inspection or preinspection of passengers (with certain exceptions) arriving in the U.S. aboard commercial aircraft or commercial vessels. Subsection 206 of P.L. 99-591 places the responsibility for physical custody of excludable aliens pursuant to former section 233 of the I & N Act of 1952, as amended on the INS. Abstract: The Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986 (IRCA) imposes sanctions against employers who hire aliens not authorized to work. Since many of the nation's agricultural employers have become dependent upon such workers to meet production and harvesting needs, Congress created the Special Agricultural Workers (SAW) Program and the Replenishment Agricultural Workers (RAW) Program to provide permanent resident status to certain agricultural workers. To clarify the process through which employers can employ nonimmigrant seasonal and temporary agricultural workers, Congress moved agricultural employment from H-2 classification into a separate H-2A class, and incorporated a labor certification process into the statute. This interim rule establishes special H-2A regulatory criteria. It supplements the Department of Labor's rules covering the temporary agricultural labor certification process. This rule amends Service regulations relating therefore to temporary alien workers seeking classification under section 101(a)(15) (H) of the Immigration and Nationality Act

Abstract: The Immigration Marriage Fraud Amendments of 1986 (Pub.L. 99-639) became effective on November 10, 1986. The law provides for conditional permanent resident status for certain alien spouses, sons and daughters of US citizens and lawful permanent residents. It also provides for the removal of the conditional basis of such residence upon the filing of a joint petition by the conditional resident and the petitioning spouse. Additionally, the law provides for the termination of an alien's lawful permanent residence for failure to file the necessary petition or for other reasons. This rulemaking creates interim regulations necessary for the implementation of the law pending preparation of final regulations.

Abstract: The changes would amend the present rules by (1) addition of supplementary definitions to those already found in the regulations; (2) establishment of procedures for expeditious processing of aliens convicted of offenses which render them deportable from the United States; and (3) establishment of procedures for making determinations necessary as to issuing detainers against aliens arrested for controlled substance violations. These changes are necessitated by the provisions of two recently passed statutes relating to criminal aliens and alien narcotics traffickers, which amended certain provisions of the INA: the Anti-Drug Abuse Act of 1986, Pub. L. 99-570; and the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, Pub. L. 99-603. Prompt establishment of the procedures contained in this rule is necessary to ensure that Service operations are conducted in a manner consistent with the Congressional intent of both Acts.

Legal Authority: 8 USC 1101; 8 USC 1103; 8 USC 1324A

CFR Citation: 8 CFR 274a

Legal Deadline: Statutory, June 1, 1987.

Abstract: This rule adds Part 274a and redesignates Part 109 with amendments as Part 274a, Subpart B, by: (1) defining terms to clarify the regulations; (2) adding new sections to establish procedures for the verification of employment eligibility for workers in the United States; (3) delineating new sections to establish enforcement and process procedures for violations; (4) redesignating Part 109 (Employment Authorization) as Subpart B of Part 274a to consolidate into one part that would otherwise be dispersed regulations. The rule is necessitated by the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, Public Law 99-603, which amended the Immigration and Nationality Act (Act) by adding provisions prohibiting the unlawful employment of aliens. These provisions make it unlawful to hire, recruit or refer for a fee for employment, unauthorized aliens in the United States. 1418. ● FAIR PETITION

Legal Authority: 8 USC 1103

CFR Citation: 8 CFR 109.1

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: On October 28, 1986 (51 FR 39385) the Immigration and Naturalization Service ("the Service") published a petition for rulemaking submitted by the Federation for American Immigration Reform ("FAIR"). The petition sought the rescission of 8 CFR 109.1(b) relating to employment authorization for aliens in the United States because the petitioner believed that the Service had exceeded its authority in promulgating the regulation. In publishing the FAIR petition, the Service explained that it was taking no position on the issues raised in the petition, but was seeking comments from interested parties. The period for submission of comments was initially designated as from October 28, 1986 to December 29, 1986, but was extended on December 18, 1986 until January 28, 1987 to afford the public an opportunity to submit comments in light of the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986. Upon a thorough review of the comments received, the Service now denies the petition.

Legal Authority: 8 USC 1101; 8 USC 1103; 8 USC 1151; 8 USC 1157; 8 USC 1159; 8 USC 1182

CFR Citation: 8 CFR 207

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The Immigration and Naturalization Service is withdrawing its proposal to amend 8 CFR 207 which would have modified the procedure to be used in determining eligibility to be considered for refugee admission under Sec 207 of the Immigration and Nationality Act, as amended by the Refugee Act of 1980. After careful consideration of all comments received in response to the proposed rulemaking we believe there was a misunderstanding on what this service was attempting to accomplish. Consequently, we have decided to withdraw the proposal at this time. The modification would have required that applicants eligible for immigrant visas under the preference classes established in subsection 203(a) of the Act and for whom a visa number would be available within one year not be admitted as refugees unless it was in the public interest. As a result of this action, we will continue with the status quo on refugee processing.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: PL 99-603; 100 Stat. 3359

CFR Citation: 8 CFR C 121

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: This notice describes the Systematic Alien Verification for Entitlements (SAVE) Program as it relates to Section 121 of the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986 (IRCA) which requires immigration status verification of alien applicants under certain federally subsidized entitlement programs. SAVE will provide a data base specifically designed to capture information contained in INS records which when used by the entitlement issuing authority will allow it to verify the alien's immigration status. This verification will assist the federal or state issuing authority in determining the eligibility of the alien applicant to receive federally subsidized benefits. Each overseeing agency affected by this provision will publish separate regulations, as necessary, describing the use of this system. Those agencies and the designated programs include: the Department of Agriculture; the Department of Housing and Urban Development; the Department of Labor; the Department of Education; and the Department of Health and Human Services.

Abstract: Title 8, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 204.5, Automatic Conversion of Classification of Beneficiary, should clearly show that the priority date for visa-issuing purposes remains the same priority date as when the initial petition was filed, even though the event changing the classification of the beneficiary was subsequent to the approval of the petition. This amendment to the regulations clarifies for the service, immigration attorneys and representatives, and the public, the process for the automatic conversion of classification of a beneficiary of an approved Form I-130, Petition for Alien Relative, to the proper classification and priority date.

CFR Citation: 8 CFR 204

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: This rulemaking changes the method by which a third preference or sixth preference priority date is established. Under regulations which have been in effect since June 20, 1986, a priority date established by the submission of a request for labor certification is lost if the immigrant visa petition seeking third or sixth preference classification is not filed within 60 days of the date of issuance of the certification, or if the petition is not resubmitted within 60 days of being returned to the petitioner for additional information. The regulations were promulgated in order to prevent certain abuses which existed under the prior regulations. However, the enactment of the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986 (IRCA) on November 6, 1986 made the June 20 changes superfluous, since IRCA more effectively prevents the same abuses.

Legal Deadline: Statutory, November 14, 1986.

Abstract: The Immigration and Nationality Act Amendments of 1986, Public Law 99-653, became effective November 14, 1986, and changes the legal custody requirement of section 101(b)(1)(E) of the Act. The amendment retains the two-year requirement for legal custody; however, instead of measuring the two-year requirement of legal custody from the date of the adoption decree as with the previous law, the requirement is now computed from the date the adopting parent(s) was first awarded legal custody of the child. This change will facilitate meeting of two-year legal custody requirement by children who have been residing in the legal custody of the adopting parents, but whose adoptions have not been finalized until the latter stages of the pre-immigration relationship. This problem was inherent in the old law because the legal custody time did not begin to toll until the child had been adopted.

Abstract: The Immigration and Naturalization Service entertains numerous applications, petitions, motions and appeals from individuals seeking benefits under the Immigration and Nationality Act, many of which require that the moving party take action within a certain number of days of a particular event. The current regulations do not make provisions for situations in which the final day falls on a Saturday, even though Service offices are generally not open for business on Saturdays and a moving party would not normally be able to take the required action on that day. The proposed rulemaking would extend the period for taking action until the end of the next business day when the final day falls on a Saturday.

Semiannual Agenda of Regulations

AGENCY: Office of the Secretary, Labor.

ACTION: Semiannual agenda of regulations selected for review or development.

SUMMARY: This document sets forth the Department's Semiannual Agenda of Regulations which have been selected for review or development during the coming one-year period. The agenda complies with the requirements of both Executive Order 12291 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

DATES: The agenda includes all regulations which are expected to be under review or development between October 1987 and October 1988.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Roland G. Droitsch, Deputy Assistant Secretary for Policy, Office of the Assistant Secretary for Policy, Department of Labor, 200 Constitution Avenue, NW., Room S-2312, Washington, DC 20210, (202) 523-9058.

Note: Information pertaining to a specific regulation can be obtained from the Agency Contact listed for that particular regulation.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Executive Order 12291 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act require the semiannual publication in the Federal Register of an agenda of regulations.

Executive Order 12291 became effective February 17, 1981, and in substance requires the Department of Labor to publish an agenda, listing all the regulations it expects to have under active consideration for promulgation, proposal or review during the coming one-year period. It also requires the Department to conduct a Regulatory Impact Analysis for all "major" regulations being developed.

The Regulatory Flexibility Act became effective on January 1, 1981. It applies only to regulations for which a notice of proposed rulemaking was issued on or after January 1, 1981, and requires the Department of Labor to publish an agenda, listing all the regulations it expects to propose or promulgate that are likely to have a "significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities" (5 U.S.C. 602). For any regulation that will have this impact, the Department must conduct a Regulatory Flexibility Analysis to gauge the economic consequences of the rule, and to analyze the availability of more flexible approaches for lightening the rule's regulatory burden on "small entities."

If a proposed regulation will not have a "significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities," the Department of Labor must publish a certification to that effect at the time of the general notice of proposed rulemaking or at the time of the publication of the final rule. That certification must be accompanied by a succinct statement explaining the reasons for the agency's determinations.

As permitted by law, the Department of Labor is combining in this publication its agendas under the Regulatory Flexibility Act and Executive Order 12291.

The regulatory reform process, of which the Unified Agenda is a part, continues to be an extremely valuable aid in the development of better regulations by the Department. We believe that our regulatory reform program has resulted in improved regulatory management, more clearly written regulations and significantly less burdensome regulations.

Further improvement is certainly needed, and we are constantly seeking new and innovative approaches in pursuit of this goal. All interested members of the public are invited and encouraged to let Departmental Officials know how our regulatory reform process can be further improved and, of course, to participate in and comment on the review or development of the regulations listed on the agenda.

The Department of Labor's next semiannual agenda, under Executive Order 12291 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act, will be published in April 1988.

William E. Brock,

Secretary of Labor.

Legal Authority: 12 USC 3401 et seq Right to Financial Privacy Act of 1978

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 19, (New)

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: These proposed regulations would authorize Department of Labor units to request financial records from a financial institution pursuant to the formal written request procedure established by the Right to Financial Privacy Act of 1978, 12 U.S.C. 3401 et seq., and would set forth the conditions under which such requests may be made. Section 1108(2) of the Right to Financial Privacy Act of 1978 requires that the formal written request be authorized by regulations promulgated by the head of the agency or department. These proposed regulations would thus, once implemented, enable Department of Labor units to utilize the formal written request procedure to obtain financial records.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 29 USC 203

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 570

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: Section 3(1) of the Fair Labor Standards Act requires the Secretary of Labor to issue regulations with respect to minors between 14 and 16 years of age ensuring that the periods and conditions of their employment do not interfere with their schooling, health, or well-being. The Secretary also is directed to designate occupations that may be particularly hazardous for minors between 16 and 18 years of age. Child Labor Regulation No. 3 sets forth the permissible industries and occupations in which 14 and 15 year olds may be employed. In addition, this regulation specifies the number of hours in a day and in a week, and time periods within a day that such minors may be employed. The nonagricultural hazardous occupations orders which prohibit the employment of minors in such occupations are also contained in 29 CFR 570. Changes in technology and job content over the years require a review of these regulations. In order to increase job opportunities for such minors, while maintaining essential protection for their well-being, modifications to these regulations may be needed. Legal Deadline: Statutory, October 1, 1983. Rules implementing Section 481 of the 1982 JTPA (29 USC 1781) are required to be published under the Act. The operational aspects of such rules need to be coordinated with the pending revisions discussed above, which has resulted in a delay.

Abstract: These provisions contain OFCCP's rules covering nondiscrimination and affirmative action obligations of Federal contractors under EO 11246, 38 USC 2012, the Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974, and Sec. 503 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. The rule would be revised to make them more cost effective, reduce paperwork burdens and assure that contractors hire the best qualified person regardless of race, color, religion, sex, or national origin. Proposed changes to the regulations were published in the Federal Register on 12/28/79 and 02/22/80, and a final rule on these issues was published on 12/30/80 (45 FR 86215). The rule was stayed and reviewed in accordance with the President's Executive Order 12291 of 02/17/81. An ANPRM was published on 07/14/81 (46 FR 36213) and supplemented on 08/21/81 (46 FR 42490) to elicit comments on several issues pertaining to the regulation. A notice of proposed rulemaking was published on 08/25/81 (46 FR 42968) with comments due by 10/26/81. The proposal further suspended the effective date of the 12/30/80 regulation, and proposed revision of that regulation. A supplemental proposal (cont)

Abstract: This proposal would make the definition section of these regulations consistent with 1978 amendments to the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the 1980 amendments to the Vietnam Era Veterans' Readjustment Assistance Act, and conform these rules to changes in DOL's regulations implementing employment under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act. The provisions reflecting statutory changes have been incorporated into the 08/25/81 "main" OFCCP proposal (46 FR 42968). A final rule incorporating only the statutory changes to the definition of "Veteran of the Vietnam Era" was published in the Federal Register on August 26, 1986 (51 FR 30467).

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 29 USC 213(a)(1)

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 541

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: These regulations set forth the criteria used in the determination of the application of the Fair Labor Standards Act exemption for "executive," "administrative," "professional" and "outside sales employees" from the minimum wage and overtime requirements of the Act. The existing regulation was targeted for review by the President's Task Force on Regulatory Relief. A final rule increasing the salary test criteria was published on 01/13/81 (46 FR 3010) and was scheduled to become effective on 02/13/81. On 02/12/81 (46 FR 11972) an indefinite stay of the final rule was published. On 03/27/81 (46 FR 18998) a proposal to suspend the final rule indefinitely was published with comments due by 04/28/81. As a result of numerous comments and petitions received from industry groups regarding the duties and responsibilities tests as set forth in the regulations, as well as recent case law developments, the Department concluded that a more comprehensive review of these regulations was needed and decided to reopen the comment period and broaden the scope of the review to include all aspects of the regulations. An ANPRM was published on 11/19/85 and its comment period was (cont)

Legal Authority: 29 USC 214; 29 USC 211

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 524; 29 CFR 525; 29 CFR 529

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: These regulations establish the terms and conditions, pursuant to section 14(c) of the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA), under which handicapped workers may be employed, under certificate, at wage rates less than those otherwise required by statute. The 1986 Amendments to the FLSA substantially revised section 14(c) to simplify worker certification by eliminating separate certification for more productive workers, multiple handicapped individuals, and those in evaluation or training and work activities centers. Three affected regulations (29 CFR 524, 525 and 529) will be combined into a single proposed new rule which will be published for public comments.

Legal Authority: 20 USC 954(i) to (j); 20 USC 956 (g)

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 505

Legal Deadline: Statutory, June 18, 1986.

Abstract: The National Foundation on the Arts and Humanities Act of 1965, as amended in 1976, requires the Secretary to determine the prevailing minimum compensation for professional performers and related or supporting professional personnel employed on projects or productions assisted by grants from the National Endowment for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Humanities. As originally enacted, these labor standards only applied to the Arts; the existing regulations do not reflect the amendments which applied the same labor standards to the Humanities. The Arts, Humanities, and Museums Amendments of 1985, which were enacted on December 20, 1985, require the Secretary of Labor to issue regulations to assure that prevailing minimum compensation is provided to all professional performers and related or supporting professional personnel employed on projects or productions financed in whole or in part by the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Abstract: These regulations govern labor standards applicable to federally funded or assisted construction contracts subject to the Davis- Bacon and Related Acts (as well as contracts subject to the Contract Work Hours and Safety Standards Act). The Department plans to implement provisions in these regulations that would permit contractors to expand their use of semi-skilled "helpers" on Davis-Bacon covered projects at wages lower than those paid to skilled journeymen. Revised final rules were originally published 05/28/82 (47 FR 23658), but were deferred on 07/26/82 (47 FR 32070) due to an injunction issued by the U.S. District Court. Although the U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C.

Circuit has since upheld most of the key provisions published in 1982, the district court injunction remains in effect against certain provisions dealing with helpers. The Department intends to implement the helper provisions in accordance with the decisions of the district and appeals courts.

Legal Authority: 41 USC 38

CFR Citation: 41 CFR 50-201.101(b)(6); 41 CFR 50-201.1201

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The proposed rule would revise the role of the Small Business Administration (SBA) in determining a small business concern's eligibility as a "manufacturer" or "regular dealer" under the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act (PCA). Current procedures for small businesses require SBA review of all contracting agency findings of ineligibility, as well as all protests which challenge an agency's findings of eligibility. SBA did not have an opportunity to comment when the current rules were first adopted following enactment of the 1977 Amendments to the Small Business Act (P.L. 95-89, 91 Stat. 561 (15 USC 637(b)(7)(B)). SBA believes its review authority under the Act is restricted to only executive branch agency findings of noneligibility under PCA, and has requested revisions to the regulations which would eliminate SBA review in protest cases which challenge an agency's findings that a small business is eligible for award. Additional revisions requested by SBA would streamline the processing of cases between SBA and Wage Hour. An additional procedural change, which was published separately as a Final Rule on 03/02/87 (cont)

Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: (52 FR 6146) discontinued the reporting requirement for federal contracting agencies to submit Standard Form (SF) 99, Notice of Award of Contract, to the Wage and Hour Division for contracts subject to the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act (PCA). A similar rule change was promulgated under the Service Contract Act (SCA) regulations (29 CFR 4.8) published October 27, 1983 (48 FR 49770). The reduced administrative burden for the affected procurement agencies resulting from the rule change under both SCA and PCA is expected to produce estimated annual cost savings governmentwide of nearly $410,000, the majority of which is attributable to PCA contract awards.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 29 USC 211

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 530

Abstract: This regulation sets forth restrictions on industrial homework and governs the issuance of certificates authorizing the employment of homeworkers in certain industries, pursuant to Section 11(d) of the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA). As originally issued, these regulations restricted the employment of industrial homework in seven industries: knitted outerwear; women's apparel; jewelry; buttons and buckles; gloves and mittens; handkerchiefs; and embroideries. The ban was removed on homework in the knitted outerwear industry by the Department 11/9/81 following extensive hearings and public comment. This action was subsequently upheld by the District Court for the District of Columbia. However, on appeal the ban was reimposed 2/29/84 by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit. On 3/27/84 the Department published a proposed rule rescinding the ban on homework in the knitted outerwear industry only. In addition to soliciting comments on the proposed recission, the Department sought comments on various alternatives to such action (49 FR 11786). On November 5, 1984, a final rule was published lifting the ban on homework for employers (cont)

Legal Authority: 30 USC 901 et seq

CFR Citation: 20 CFR 725.491(b)(2)

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The intent of this proposal was to make explicit the Department's policy that a lessor of a coal mine, who had never actually operated such a mine, would not be held liable for the payment of benefits for black lung contracted in the course of employment in that mine and, therefore, need not insure against that possibility. However, serious questions concerning the approach taken in the notice of proposed rulemaking have arisen. After review of the comments received in response to the proposed rule and review of the Department's experience during the intervening period under the current rule, it has been decided that the current practices and policy of making such determinations of liability on the facts of each individual case have served the Department well and that no change in the regulation or that policy will be implemented at this time. The Department will, however, continue to monitor the situation to ascertain whether the initiation of any additional rulemaking is necessary. The proposed rule is withdrawn.

Abstract: These regulations are being developed to implement the benefit provisions contained in Sec. 43 of the Airline Deregulation Act of 1978. The Act requires the Secretary of Labor to specify the percentage of prior salary which an "eligible protected employee" would receive as a benefit payment under the Act. An eligible protected employee is a person who has had at least 4 years of employment with a certificated air carrier as of October 24, 1978 and who loses his or her job during the ten years following such date in a bankruptcy or major employment contraction if and only if the Department of Transportation determines that the principal causes of such job loss was deregulation. On May 17, 1984 the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia held that Section 43 of the Airline Deregulation Act was unconstitutional. On July 16, 1985, the U.S. Court of Appeals decided that the employee protection provisions of Section 43 were severable from the legislative veto provisions. 1464. REFOCUS OF THE PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT SERVICE

Legal Authority: PL 97-300 Wagner-Peyser Act as amended by the JTPA

CFR Citation: 20 CFR 652; 20 CFR 653

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: In September 1986, the Department of Labor announced in the Federal Register its review of the public employment service, raising the concern of the employment service capability to meet the current and future labor market needs, particularly the labor market needs that will emerge in the year 2000. The announcement provided the public an opportunity to respond either orally at public meetings held in October, 1986 or in writing directly to the Department. The announcement described the concern of the questions concerning the purpose and role of the employment service. An analysis of the public response to the announcement, as well as other data available to the Department from other research, studies, and papers provides the basis for the Department to propose a refocus of the employment service to address current and emerging labor force trends. Regulations maybe proposed to the extent needed, to either implement any new legislation that may emerge or to achieve the new direction.

1468. ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEDURE

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 42 USC 1302

CFR Citation: 20 CFR 601.9, (Revision)

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The regulation will provide States with administrative appeal rights before the Office of Administrative Law Judges for final determinations disallowing costs or imposing corrective actions as a result of all audits in the Federal-State unemployment compensation program and related Federal unemployment benefit and allowance programs. Currently, no such appeal rights exist and if a State seeks review of one of the above actions the only appeal forum is the Federal Court. Provision of these appeal rights before the Office of Administrative Law Judges should reduce the workload of the Federal Court system and allow the Department of Labor to adjudicate the issues in a more informal setting with the Administrative Law Judges, who are more accustomed to dealing with the particular issues involved. The regulation will also correct what is perceived as an inequity, since most Employment and Training Administration programs have administrative appeal rights.

Abstract: Governors are responsible for resolving audits of their JTPA subgrantees and subcontractors. Current ETA policy requires federal review and approval of these resolutions only in cases of fraud, gross mismanagement and abuse. More routine audit resolutions are only reviewed on a sample basis during onsite compliance reviews. However, a recent legal opinion stated that the JTPA regulations as presently written could be construed as requiring federal review and approval of all Governors' audit resolutions. The regulations may have to be amended in order to implement ETA's policy.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: EO 12073; EO 10582

CFR Citation: 20 CFR 654.5(b)

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: Currently the Department of Labor only classifies civil jurisdictions (counties, cities over 50,000 population as well as townships and towns in certain selected States) as labor surplus areas. This policy has resulted in some employment centers in the nation's large metropolitan areas not being classified as labor surplus areas, even though the entire Metropolitan Statistical Areas or Primary Metropolitan Statistical Areas would meet the labor surplus area criteria if such geographic areas were classified. The proposed rule would grant the Assistant Secretary for Employment and Training the authority to classify Metropolitan Statistical Areas and Primary Metropolitan Statistical Areas as labor surplus areas to help alleviate unemployment in these areas. The change will add some additional labor surplus areas to the current list but it will not increase the funds going to such designated areas.

Abstract: The establishment of a UI QC program is a major initiative to reduce administrative errors and abuse in the UI system. Reported error rates are 10 times lower than those found under the QC sampling methodology. A one percent reduction in the error rate could potentially translate to a savings of millions of dollars in the benefit payment process. Additional savings may be realized when the program is extended to the revenue function.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 8 USC 1182(a)(14)

CFR Citation: 20 CFR 656

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: Physicians are currently on the Department's Schedule A precertification list if they are to be employed in a designated Health Manpower Shortage Area (HMSA) or an area which has an insufficient number of physicians as designated by the Public Health Service (PHS). The PHS has recommended removal of physicians from Schedule A, or in the alternative leave only those physicians on Schedule A that are to be employed in the HMSA's. According to the PHS: (1) neither Congress nor the Department of Health and Human Services recognizes the existence of a national shortage of physicians; (2) alien physicians after they are certified do not go to the HMSA's or the area with an insufficient number of physicians, or if they do go to these areas they leave shortly after starting work. Thus, the labor certification program has not had a significant effect in alleviating the shortage of physicians in the HMSA's or in the areas with an insufficient number of physicians. Consequently, ETA proposes to remove all physicians from Schedule A.

Abstract: States and other interested parties have questioned the adequacy of the existing method for financing and allocating SESA administrative resources in general and unemployment insurance (UI) administrative resources in particular. Problems identified include: (1) basis and methodology for allocating SESA administrative resources among States; (2) insufficient flexibility to meet State management needs; (3) excessive Federal intervention and prescription; (4) possible duplicative and unnecessary reporting requirements; (5) inadequate State accountability and authority; (6) disincentives for improving productivity; (7)inadequate resources for nonpersonal services. Significance: Regulatory Program

CFR Citation: 30 CFR 7; 30 CFR 70; 30 CFR 75

Abstract: MSHA has established a mining equipment approval program, including evaluation criteria, and corresponding safety standards requiring the use of certain equipment. Abstract: Existing electrical standards for surface coal mines would be reorganized, clarified, and updated. General incorporations by reference of the National Electric Code would be eliminated and replaced with specific standards applicable to surface coal mining operations. Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 30 USC 957; 30 USC 813(d)

CFR Citation: 30 CFR 50

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: In response to concerns raised by members of Congress and the mining community about the nature and accuracy of existing reporting obligations, MSHA established an intra-agency task force to review its requirements for reports of accidents, injuries and illnesses in coal and metal and nonmetal mines. The Agency focused on several aspects of the reporting requirements including the definition of an occupational injury or illness, and an expanded audit program. In December 1986, MSHA issued Program Information Bulletin No. 86-6C and 86-3M on this subject to the mining community. The Agency is reviewing its program in light of overall Departmental initiatives in this area, with the goal of assuring a system of accurate and reliable reporting.

Abstract: In 1973, the Agency issued installation and performance requirements for automatic emergency brakes on rubber-tired, self-propelled electric face equipment for underground coal mines. However, there was not sufficient technical data to develop criteria for evaluating the designs of these braking systems. On July 30, 1974, the effective dates for compliance with 75.523-3 were suspended indefinitely. Abstract: The Agency is developing a NPRM which would replace an incorporation by reference with updated permissible exposure limits which are specifically applicable to the hazards encountered in metal and nonmetal mining. The proposal would solicit comment on which means of control would provide the necessary protection from airborne contaminants. Standards for use of respiratory protective equipment would replace an outdated incorporation by reference. Other issues being considered are: requirements for exposure monitoring and precautions for handling restricted-use chemicals; notification of workers of overexposures; and access to exposure records. 1511. PROCEDURES FOR APPROVAL OF MINING EQUIPMENT

Legal Authority: 30 USC 811

CFR Citation: 30 CFR 7

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: This would be a new Part. Under existing regulations, certain equipment must be tested and approved by MSHA prior to use in certain underground mines. The proposal would permit manufacturers or independent laboratories to test certain equipment prior to issuance of the Agency's approval. The actual authority for approval would continue to remain with the government. The final rule will also contain a mechanism for monitoring quality assurance and conducting post-approval audits.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 30 USC 957

CFR Citation: 30 CFR 11

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: Under the 1977 Mine Act, MSHA and the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH) jointly approve respirators for use in hazardous atmospheres. New technology has been developed which has not been accommodated by the existing regulations. In addition, questions have been raised about laboratory testing and field performance of respirators. The decision has been made for NIOSH to have the lead in approval of respirators. MSHA will be involved with the devices which are uniquely adapted or required for mining. A proposed rule to remove MSHA's regulations upon completion of a concurrent NIOSH rulemaking was published in August 1987. However, further rulemaking is contingent upon NIOSH's timetables.

Abstract: An emergency temporary standard (ETS) was published (6/30/87, 52 FR 24374) which required all coal miners to receive hands-on training in the use of SCSR's by 9/28/87. The ETS was issued in accordance with Section 101(b) of the Mine Act and revises 30 CFR 75.1714. In conjunction with the ETS, MSHA published a proposed rule (6/30/87; 52 FR 24378) which will supersede the ETS when promulgated in final form.

Abstract: The safety standards for methane (formerly known as Gassy Mines) were part of the overall metal and nonmetal review of high priority sections. The final rule places all underground mines in one of six categories based on the degree of hazard present at the mine. Each category has its own set of standards specific to the gradation of hazard present at the mine.

MSHA is issuing amendments to the final rule to eliminate internal inconsistencies in the rule. MSHA is also making editorial and technical corrections and is providing additional explanation to clarify the intent of other standards. In addition, MSHA is staying the effective date of the standard that requires blasting from the surface in Subcategory I-A mines to permit additional public comment and Agency analysis of technical issues.

Part 1919, entitled "Gear Certification," implements requirements located in each of OSHA's maritime standards which cover work carried out within the Federal maritime jurisdiction. Changes in the design and composition of cargo handling gear which have evolved since these rules were last amended (1969) provided questions as to the efficacy of the current rules. Additionally, the Agency sought comments that would suggest ways in which the administrative function of the accreditation program could be improved. Comment period ended: August 5, 1987.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 29 USC 655 et seq

CFR Citation: 29 CFR Not yet determined

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: Many health-care workers are exposed to blood and body fluids from patients who have active bloodborne infections or are carriers of these infections. Such exposure presents a potential risk of disease for the health-care workers. One such disease, hepatitis B, has been shown to present a substantially increased risk for health-care workers. Data received by OSHA indicate that of the approximately 250,000 cases of hepatitis B diagnosed in the U.S. each year, approximately 5.5 percent, or 15,000 cases, are among health-care workers. It has been estimated that 222-265 health-care workers die each year as a result of hepatitis B and associated complications. About half of the nation's five million health-care workers are at increased risk from exposure to bloodborne infectious diseases. The highest risks are experienced by emergency room workers, dialysis unit workers, operating room personnel, intensive care unit workers and blood bank employees. OSHA's personal protective equipment standard, 29 CFR 1910.132(a), provisions for general housekeeping, 29 CFR 1910(a)(1) and waste disposal, 29 CFR 1910. 141(a)(4)(ii)) along with Section 5(a)(i) of the Act (Cont'd)

1531. CARCINOGEN POLICY

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 29 USC 653; 29 USC 655; 29 USC 657

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 1990

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The Carcinogen Policy describes the criteria and procedures OSHA will use to identify, classify, and then regulate carcinogens. The Policy also establishes a process for screening chemicals and for setting priorities for potential rulemaking activities. The Carcinogen Policy explicitly recognizes that periodic revisions are necessary in order to incorporate the latest scientific advances and techniques into the regulatory process. Hence, given the very rapid advances since 1980 in the understanding of the mechanisms of carcinogenesis, it is time for OSHA to review and modernize the Carcinogen Policy. The original standard was issued in 1980 before the Supreme Court "benzene" decision on significant risk. Thereafter, a final rule deleting provisions of the Carcinogen Policy that were inconsistent with the benzene decision was published on 1/19/81 (46 FR 4889). A proposal was published on 1/23/81 (46 FR 7402) to permit alternatives to the risk analysis section of the carcinogen policy to be addressed. The proposal was withdrawn on 3/27/81 (46 FR 19000). An advance notice of proposed rulemaking was published on 1/5/82 (47 FR 187) with comments due by 4/5/82. That document (cont)

Legal Deadline: Judicial, March 1988. In a July 21, 1987, decision the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit ordered OSHA to adhere to the schedule set out in its response to petitioners' contempt motion and issue its final decision on the EtO STEL issue no later than March 1988.

Abstract: On July 25, 1986, in Public Citizen HRG v. Tyson, Docket No. 84-1252, the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia upheld most of the final standard on EtO, including the 1 ppm TWA. However, the Court remanded the standard to the Agency for further proceedings on whether a short term exposure limit is necessary to further reduce the significant risk that exists with a 1 ppm TWA alone. In accordance with the Court's order, OSHA intends to reopen the EtO rulemaking record to review the issue of the STEL. This will be accomplished by publication of a notice of proposed rulemaking.

Abstract: On June 17, 1986, OSHA issued revised standards governing occupational exposure to asbestos, tremolite, anthophyllite, and actinolite in general industry and in the construction industry. These standards replaced OSHA's previous asbestos standard promulgated in 1972. Since the issuance of the revised standards OSHA has received letters and petitions, from both rulemaking participants and nonparticipants, that contain additional comments, assertions and information that the rulemaking record may not fully reflect. These letters and petitions concern the appropriateness of regulating nonasbestiform tremolite, anthophyllite and actinolite as presenting the same health risk as asbestos. OSHA has granted a temporary stay of the effective dates of the current standards as they apply to nonasbestiform varieties of tremolite, anthophyllite and actinolite. This action was taken, in part, to enable the Agency to review letters and memoranda from the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health as well as submissions by the R.T. Abstract: OSHA's policy concerning the use of engineering controls and respirators wa3 targeted for review by the President's Task Force on Regulatory Relief in 1981. Current OSHA regulations require that employers implement feasible engineering controls to maintain air contaminant concentrations in the workplace at or below the prescribed permissible exposure limits. The use of respirators is permitted only in those cases where engineering controls are not feasible, not yet installed, or not adequate. This policy has been criticized as being inflexible, not cost-effective, and often unnecessary for employee health protection. OSHA believes that any changes to the policy for use of engineering controls must be closely coordinated with revisions in the respiratory protection regulations (29 CFR 1910.134). This rulemaking does not address the assessment and reduction of any absolute existing risks, but rather addresses the possible change in risk abatement associated with the use of respirators instead of engineering controls.

Abstract: Logging is a very hazardous industry. It has an incidence rate nearly twice that of manufacturing, and reflecting the seriousness of the injuries incurred, a lost workday rate nearly four times as high. The purpose of the standard will be to protect workers from the ever-present hazards of chain saw operation, falling objects (trees, branches), rolling or sliding logs, falls from trees, and materials handling accidents. At present there is no OSHA standard specifically applicable to logging in general. There is a standard, 29 CFR 1910.266, applicable only to pulpwood logging; however, pulpwood logging is estimated to account for less than half of the logging activity in the United States. Development of a national OSHA standard addressing all types of logging will provide coverage for those loggers not now protected. The new regulation will provide coverage where there is no approved state regulation and will set a minimum safety level for those states that chose to develop a state regulation.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 29 USC 655(b)

Abstract: The proposed standard will fill a major gap in our current regulations which now depend for enforcement on the general duty clause, 5(a)(1). It will apply to those situations where the unexpected energization, start up or the release of stored energy could cause injury to employees. Providing comprehensive and uniform control procedures is also expected to reduce significantly the potential for injury and death of employees because the hazards targeted for control exist in virtually every workplace. Further, the proposed standard will respond to the concerns of organized labor who petitioned OSHA in 1979 and again in 1982 for regulatory action to protect employees and to the American National Standards Institute's petition for OSHA to adopt its consensus standard ANSI Z244.1-1982. Regulatory options involve developing a comprehensive standard covering all potentially hazardous energy sources or limiting the scope and application to those certain machines or industries that are causing most of the injuries.

Abstract: The purpose of this regulatory action would be to update and revise a standard first issued in 1960. The current language in many instances addresses the hazards to cargo handling involving methods long since abandoned, and fails to address the serious hazards of newer methods. Because much of the current standard is out of date, there are problems with compliance. These revised requirements will provide both employers and employees with a blueprint for effective and safe workpractices in the cargo handling industry. No alternative other than revision is contemplated. The annual cost of the revision is expected to be minimal -- less than five million dollars.

Abstract: 4,4'-Methylenedianiline (MDA) is a chemical used primarily to manufacture methylenediphenyl diisocyanate, which is used to make polyurethane foams and elastomers. Recent scientific data indicate that MDA is a carcinogen in animals and a potential carcinogen in humans. In 1983, OSHA and the Environmental Protection Agency participated in a joint effort to publish an advance notice of proposed rulemaking to solicit information on MDA production and use, estimates of environmental and occupational exposure, and studies of its toxic and carcinogenic effects. EPA evaluated the data received in response to the advance notice and concluded that the chemical presents an unreasonable risk of injury to the health of exposed workers. Under the provisions of section 9(a) of the Toxic Substances Control Act, EPA referred MDA to OSHA for action. OSHA responded to the EPA referral on 2/26/86. OSHA established a mediated rulemaking advisory committee composed of interested parties from labor, industry and government to assist the agency in developing a proposed standard. (Requirements on this subject will be introduced in a separate rulemaking into the general fall protection standard constitution Subpart M of Part 1926). In addition, this action will consolidate, clarify, and revise the existing provisions governing steel erection assembly, flooring, bolting, riveting, fitting-up, and plumbing-up. .

Abstract: On May 20, 1986, the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) issued a report to OSHA, under Section 9(a) of the Toxic Substances Control Act, stating that EPA has reasonable basis to conclude that the risk of injury to worker health from exposure to four glycol ethers during their manufacture, processing and use is unreasonable, and that this risk may be prevented or reduced to a significant extent by OSHA regulatory action. EPA gave OSHA 180 days in which to respond to its report. OSHA published its response on December 11, 1986, stating that OSHA had preliminarily concluded that occupational exposures to the subject glycol ethers at the current OSHA permissible exposure limits may present significant risks to the health of workers. OSHA announced that it would begin rulemaking proceedings for these chemicals.

Abstract: In July 1985, OSHA was petitioned by the United Automobile, Aerospace and Agricultural Implement Workers of America (UAW) to issue a hazard alert; issue an emergency temporary standard; and to begin work on a new permanent standard for methylene chloride (DCM). This request was based on information obtained from the Environmental Protection Agency and the National Toxicology Program indicating that DCM is an animal carcinogen and may have the potential to cause cancer in humans. In November 1986, OSHA notified the UAW that its petition had been granted, in part, and denied, in part. Specifically, OSHA has issued a set of guidelines for controlling occupational exposure to DCM and has decided to proceed with rulemaking to develop a new permanent standard. OSHA denied that portion of the petition requesting the issuance of an emergency temporary standard.

Abstract: Public Law 99-499 requires the Secretary of Labor to promulgate a final standard for Hazardous Operations and Emergency Response by October 17, 1987. The law requires the proposed rule to address eleven areas: site analysis, training, medical surveillance, protective equipment, engineering controls, maximum surveillance, protective equipment, engineering controls, maximum exposure limits, informational programs, handling and labeling, new technology programs, decontamination procedures, and emergency response. The agency has developed a Preliminary Regulatory Impact Analysis which is available in the docket. The analysis estimates that the benefits are significant and that annualized costs are $71 million for training, $17 million for medical surveillance, $12 million for decontamination, $11 million for protection suits and $37 million for other requirements. OSHA intends to conduct public hearings in two locations across the country to enhance public comment and participation in this rulemaking.

Abstract: On June 18, 1986, the International Chemical Workers Union and the Public Citizen Health Research Group petitioned OSHA to issue an emergency temporary standard reducing the permissible exposure limit for cadmium to one microgram of cadmium per cubic meter of air. On June 25, 1987 the union and HR 6 filed a petition with the Court of Appeals requesting the Court to order OSHA to promulgate an ETS. In its July 1, 1987, response to the petitioners, OSHA stated that issuance of an emergency standard was not warranted, but that exposure to cadmium at levels permitted under the current standard represented a significant risk to worker health which would be addressed through section 6(b) rulemaking procedures. OSHA is in the process of developing a proposed standard.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 29 USC 655 et seq

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 1910.1000, Tables Z-1 to Z-3

Abstract: In 1972, OSHA promulgated permissible exposure limits (PELs) for a number of toxic substances, pursuant to authority granted by section 6(a) of the Act, which allowed OSHA (for a limited period) to adopt existing Federal standards or industry consensus standards as enforceable OSHA standards. Accordingly, the lists of toxic substances now codified at 29 CFR 1910.1000, Tables Z-1 and Z-3, were Federal standards adopted under the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act, which, in turn, were adopted from the American Conference of Governmental Industrial Hygienists (ACGIH) Threshold Limit Values (TLVs) for 1968. The substances listed at 29 CFR 1910.1000, Table Z-2, were adopted from American National Standards Institute standards. Industrial experience, new developments in control technology, and scientific data acquired since 1968 have led the ACGIH to make changes in its TLVs over the years. Many of the TLVs have been lowered, and limits for additional chemicals have been established. During this period, OSHA has promulgated revised standards for toxic substances on a substance-by-substance basis. This process, however, has not kept up with (Cont'd)

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 29 USC 655(b)

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 1910, Subpart H

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: Standards in 29 CFR Part 1910, Subpart H, which address the storage, handling and use of hazardous materials, such as compressed gases, acetylene, hydrogen, oxygen, liquified petroleum gases, and flammable and combustible liquids, would be revised to update the existing criteria which is specification oriented and replaced with performance-oriented requirements that address hazardous materials generically. That is, the hazards of material such as flammability, explosiveness, corrosiveness and toxic effects would be addressed by the requirements rather than the specific materials themselves being individually addressed. The proposed action is intended to simplify, clarify and consolidate standards on hazardous materials and assist employers and employees in general industry to better understand and better focus on the hazards inherent in the use, handling, and storage of such materials.

Abstract: Existing OSHA standards are designed to protect employees who are engaged in work involving exposure to only a few toxic chemicals during relatively standardized, continuous or repetitive processes. In contrast, laboratory workers are exposed to a multitude of toxic substances under frequently changing or unpredictable conditions. During this rulemaking, OSHA will examine whether prudent work practices and protective equipment, chosen for the specific facility and task, are more effective, feasible and economical for laboratory work than adhering to OSHA's current substance-specific standards. Accordingly, OSHA has proposed a special performance-oriented work practices standard that, if promulgated, would apply to laboratory workers and would contain provisions specifically designed for laboratory conditions.

Abstract: Recent scientific studies have reported that ethylene dibromide causes cancer when administered orally, by inhalation and by skin application in laboratory animals. In addition, other studies have shown the chemical to be a mutagen, teratogen and testicular toxin in experimental animals. On the basis of these reports, OSHA has determined that its current permissible exposure limit of 20 ppm does not provide exposed workers adequate protection against cancer and other adverse health effects. A proposed standard for ethylene dibromide was published 10/07/83 (43 FR 45956). Public hearings were held in February 1984. OSHA is currently in the process of decisionmaking on the provisions to be included in the final standard.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 29 USC 655(b); 29 USC 657

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 1910.20

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The existing record access rule was promulgated in May 1980. The rule requires employers to preserve and maintain exposure and medical records pertinent to employee exposure to toxic substances, and to ensure access to these records by employees, designated employee representatives and OSHA. As a result of numerous requests and suggestions for changes to the standard, OSHA published a proposal to revise the standard in 1982. OSHA intends to publish soon a final rule that resolves many of the issues raised in the 1982 proposal. This regulation will be similar to the regulation promulgated in 1980 with certain exceptions relating to: (1) first-aid records and medical records of short-term employees; (2) the microfilm storage of employee X-rays; (3) employer trade secrets; (4) employee exposure record requirements for other records; and (5) unconsented access to employee exposure records by union representatives.

Abstract: One of the greatest hazards associated with concrete and masonry structures in the construction industry is the collapse or failure of the entire structure or its forms and shoring. The catastrophic failures of recent years indicate that revision of the existing standard applicable to such construction operations is necessary. The current concrete standard contains outdated referenced standards, gaps in coverage, redundant provisions, and provisions which need clarification. The referenced standards are being updated and placed in the body of the standard. New standards are being added to cover precast concrete erection and masonry wall construction. The provisions that were identified as being redundant are being removed and the ambiguous provisions are being clarified.

Abstract: Hazards associated with fires and explosions in grain handling facilities have existed for many years. These hazards continue to exist, and pose a risk of harm to employees working in these facilities. Based on an extensive rulemaking record resulting from a proposed standard for grain handling facilities, OSHA is developing a final rule to mitigate the hazards associated with these facilities. OSHA is carefully considering the record to assure that the scope, application and other provisions of the standard appropriately address the hazards.

Abstract: The present standard, which requires positive engagement of a powered platform with a building face to provide stabilization, may need to be revised because many variance designs have been submitted which do not provide positive engagement of the platform, yet claim equal stability. The agency believes there may be merit to this claim. The proposal provides flexibility in compliance through performance-oriented provisions as alternatives to positive engagement. It would also expand the scope of the current standard to include requirements covering additional suspension equipment, fall protection, and employee training.

Abstract: This rulemaking would establish procedures for recognizing those competent to fulfill testing and certification requirements contained in many OSHA safety standards. It would also amend a number of existing OSHA standards by deleting references to two product testing groups, UL and FM, that are included in these standards which were originally adopted as national consensus standards under Section 6(a) of the Act. OSHA's unimplemented regulation, Accreditation of Testing Laboratories, 29 CFR Part 1907, would be superseded as a result of these changes.

Abstract: The use of cranes and derricks to suspend personnel in platforms is a hazardous operation that is not currently covered by OSHA Construction Standards. OSHA has issued administrative instructions on this practice, but this alternative to rulemaking has not been successful. This final rule has been developed to reduce the number of accidents, many of which involve multiple fatalities, that result from equipment inadequacies and failures or improper work practices.

Data to determine the potential costs and benefits from this rulemaking are currently being evaluated by OSHA's Office of Regulatory Analysis.

Legal Authority: 29 USC 655(b)

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 1910.1000, Table Z-2; 29 CFR 1910.1028

Abstract: OSHA has amended its standard for occupational exposure to benzene by reducing the permissible exposure limit from 10 parts benzene per million parts of air (10 ppm) to an eight-hour time-weighted average of 1 ppm and by adding appropriate industrial hygiene and medical surveillance provisions necessary for the protection of employee health. This action is based on OSHA's determination that the amendments are needed to reduce the risk of leukemia and other adverse health effects associated with occupational exposure to benzene.

OSHA published its final amendment to the standard on September 11, 1987. Due to technical problems associated with the completion of a detailed study of feasibility in barge and tanker cleaning and repair operations, however, OSHA exempted these operations from certain provisions of the standard. OSHA intends to issue a proposal to amend the benzene standard which will address the factors specific to the barge and tanker cleaning and repair industry.

Abstract: Studies indicate adverse health effects in humans and animals exposed to airborne formaldehyde at concentrations permitted by OSHA's present standard. In humans, formaldehyde causes reversible sensory irritation of the eyes, nose, and throat, asthma and dermal irritation sensitization. Chronic studies in animals suggest that formaldehyde may also pose a carcinogenic risk in humans. This information indicates that the present OSHA standard for formaldehyde may need revision. On December 10, 1985, OSHA published a proposed standard. Public hearings were held in May 1985. OSHA is currently in the process of decisionmaking on the provisions to be included in the final standard.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 29 USC 655 et seq

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 1910.1025

Legal Deadline: Judicial, October 1, 1987.

Abstract: On December 11, 1981 (46 FR 60758), OSHA published a Revised Statement of Reasons concerning the feasibility of compliance with paragraph (e)(1) of the standard for occupational exposure to lead, which had been promulgated in 1978. In this revised statement, OSHA stated that it could not reach a conclusion regarding feasibility, on the basis of the existing rulemaking record, for eight specific industry sectors: lead chromate pigments, lead chemicals, nonferrous foundries, brass and bronze ingot production, secondary copper smelting leaded steel, shipbuilding and ship repair, stevedoring, and battery breaking separate from secondary smelting, and that in addition, it wished to reexamine the applicability of the lead standard to the stevedoring industry. OSHA requested that the record (which was under review by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit) be remanded for supplementary administrative proceedings. The Court granted OSHA's December 1981 request on March 31, 1987, and remanded the record to OSHA for further administrative proceedings to determine the feasibility of section (e)(1) for the nine industry sectors OSHA had (Cont'd)

On June 17, 1987, OSHA filed with the Court a motion requesting a 90-day extension to January 1, 1988. On July 31, 1987 the Court granted OSHA's motion. OSHA published in the Federal Register on August 3, 1987, a notice of a limited reopening of the rulemaking record (limited to the issue of feasibility) and specified September 2, 1987 for the receipt of comments from the public and September 15, 1987 for public hearings. Thereafter, at the request of industry and labor, OSHA deferred the relevant dates for the rulemaking until September 16 and 29, 1987, respectively.

Significance: Regulatory Program

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 1910, Subpart H

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The present Subpart H, Hazardous Materials, standard is out of date and in some respects is oriented towards public safety and property protection. OSHA has been petitioned to cover many other hazardous materials operations where presently it has no standards. It is the purpose of this revision to consolidate the existing standards for flammable and compressed gases by providing general requirements and specific requirements for selected gases which warrant special attention due to their hazards and uses within the industrial environment. The overall intended effect of the revision is to update and simplify the existing requirements while enhancing employee safety and health.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 33 USC 941; 29 USC 655

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 1917.44(o), (Revision)

Abstract: OSHA has proposed to revise Section 1917.44(o), which currently covers only the servicing of multi-piece rim wheels, to include the servicing of single piece rim wheels. When the general industry rule for single piece rim wheels was issued (02/03/84), the Agency stated its intention to extend the same type of coverage to the maritime industry. The Agency has been petitioned by maritime labor and management groups to initiate this action. The proposal would reference the general industry standard, Section 1910.177, which would now apply to marine terminals in lieu of the current requirements of Section 1917.44(o).

1588. HAZARD COMMUNICATION IN SHIPYARD EMPLOYMENT (PART 1915)

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 29 USC 655 Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970; 33 USC 941 Longshore and Harborworkers Compensation Act

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 1915.97, (Revision)

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: As the shipbuilding and ship repairing industries (SIC 37) were covered under the scope of the Hazard Communication Standard (29 CFR 1910.1200), duplication of regulations existed due to similar requirements in Section 1915.97 dealing with informing employees about hazardous materials. This action proposed to eliminate this duplication in the shipbuilding and ship repairing industries by deleting from 29 CFR 1915.97 those regulations (paragraphs (a), (b) and (d) of section 1915.97) dealing with hazard communication and referencing the Hazard Communication Standard. Shipbreaking, (SIC 44), was to remain under the coverage of section 1915.97(a), (b) and (d). The mandatory use of the OSHA Form 20 (MSDS), currently required by section 1915.97(c), was to be eliminated for all three shipyard industries. In its revised Hazard Communication Standard, published on August 24, 1987, OSHA extended coverage of 29 CFR 1910.1200 to all sectors of shipyard employment, adding a new section 1915.99 and deleting paragraphs (a) and (d) of section 1915.97. Legal Deadline: Judicial, May 29, 1987.

Abstract: This action complies with the May 29, 1987, order of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit directing OSHA to publish "a hazard communication standard applicable to all workers covered by the Occupational Safety Health Act, including those which have not been covered in the hazard communication standard as presently written or a statement of reasons why, on the basis of the present administrative record, a hazard communication standard is infeasible." Because the present administrative record as a whole indicates the hazard communication standard is feasible for all industries, the Agency is complying with the court order by revising the standard, currently applicable to the manufacturing sector, to cover all employers with employees potentially exposed to hazardous chemicals in their workplaces. Expansion of the coverage of the standard requires, among other things, nonmanufacturing employers to establish hazard communication programs to transmit information on the hazards of the chemicals to their employees by means of labels on containers, material safety data sheets and training programs. Abstract: Executive Order 12532 of September 9, 1985 required U.S. firms operating in South Africa to take good faith measures with respect to certain fair labor standards. A final rule was promulgated for this purpose after receiving public comments. The requirements of this Executive Order were later codified in the Comprehensive Anti-Apartheid Act of October 2, 1986, and amendments to the regulations were promulgated as a final rule on October 22, 1986. The first annual review of the labor practices of U.S. firms is scheduled to be completed in August 1987. The Department of State intends to conduct a review of the regulations after this occurs and to determine whether the regulations and the questionnaire relied on to collect the needed information should be revised.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 22 USC 4301 et seq; 22 USC 254(e)

CFR Citation: 22 CFR 151

Abstract: The Foreign Missions Act creates certain authorities for the Secretary of State relating to the regulation of foreign missions, diplomatic, consular, and international organizations. Exercise of those authorities could involve restricting or controlling the access of such missions to American vendors of goods and services. Exercise of other authorities in the Foreign Missions Act could affect the location of premises of foreign missions. Exercise of authority in the Diplomatic Relations Act, 22 USC 254(a) et seq., as amended by Title VI of P.L. 98-164, will have an impact on the acquisition of liability insurance coverage for the operation of motor vehicles, vessels, and aircraft by personnel of foreign missions, and could in certain situations, subject foreign missions to surcharges or fees. The regulations under consideration would provide procedures for exercise of these authorities. These regulations are at the stage of preliminary consideration. Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: None, until ratification of treaty.

CFR Citation: 22 CFR Not yet determined

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The 1980 Hague Convention provides for the prompt return of children habitually resident in one contracting State who have been wrongfully abducted to another, including wrongful retention by a non-custodial parent. When the United States ratifies the Convention and Congress enacts the federal legislation, the Bureau of Consular Affairs will be tasked by executive order to serve as U.S. Central Authority (CA) under the Convention. Thus it will receive applications for the return of children wrongfully abducted to or retained in the United States. In conjunction with cooperating authorities in the U.S. State where the child is believed to be located, the CA's task will include seeking to locate the child, facilitating the initiation of a court action to require the child's return, arranging for the provision of information about the child's circumstances in the country of its habitual residence, and arranging for the child's return transportation if return is ordered. The President transmitted the convention for advice and consent to ratification by the Senate on October 30, 1985 (Senate Treaty Doc. 99-11). Legal Authority: 22 USC 2658

CFR Citation: 22 CFR 136, (new)

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The Department of State will participate in the promulgation of a common regulation that establishes uniform administrative requirements for grants and cooperative agreements to universities, hospitals, and other nonprofit organizations. This effort will revise the current Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular A-110 (same title) for the purpose of restoring commonality between A-110 and OMB Circular A-102, "Uniform Administrative Requirements for Grants to State and Local Governments." Under the revised Circular A-102, and as directed by President Reagan on March 12, 1987, all affected agencies have proposed simultaneously common regulations that adopt government-wide terms and conditions. This procedure will be used to implement the revised Circular A-110. No other alternatives are being considered. Abstract: The Department of State is publishing this rule as an adoption of a common regulation establishing a uniform system of non-procurement debarment and suspension among many Federal agencies. This system is intended to curb fraud, waste, and abuse in non-procurement activities using Federal assistance. Guidelines for the system were developed by a Task Force on Non - Procurement Suspension and Debarment. The task force was convened by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB), pursuant to its responsibilities established by President Reagan under Executive Order 12549, Debarment and Suspension (February 18, 1986). As a Federal agency, the Department of State must either adopt this common rule or promulgate a separate system that meets the requirements of Executive Order 12549.

Abstract: The Department of State is publishing the Department of State Acquisition Regulation (DOSAR) as part of the Federal Acquisition Regulations System, which consists of the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) and agency acquisition regulations that implement or supplement the FAR. This action is necessary to provide regulatory guidelines not otherwise found in the FAR for Department of State acquisitions. There are no other alternatives for addressing the problem; the DOSAR must be established in accordance with FAR Subpart 1.3. and cooperative agreements to state and local governments and federally recognized Indian tribal governments. Office of Management and Budget (OMB) Circular number A-102, "Uniform Requirements for Assistance to State and Local Governments," was reviewed by a task force chaired by OMB for the purposes of revising, clarifying, and simplifying A-102. OMB Circular A-102 directs Federal agencies to promulgate implementing regulations. Toward that end, on March 12, 1987, President Reagan directed all affected agencies to simultaneously propose common regulations that adopt government-wide terms and conditions for this purpose. Therefore, there are no other alternatives for this problem. This rule is intended to promote consistency and uniformity among the participating agencies.

Agenda

Background

Improvement of government regulations is a prime goal of the Reagan Administration. There should be no more regulations than necessary, and those that are issued should be simpler, more comprehensible, and less burdensome. Regulations should not be issued without appropriate involvement of the public; once issued, they should be periodically reviewed and revised, as needed, to assure that they continue to meet the needs for which they originally were designed.

To help the Department of Transportation ("Department") achieve these goals, and in accordance with Executive Order 12291 ("Federal Regulation"; 46 FR 13193; February 19, 1981) and the Department's Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034; February 26, 1979), the Department prepares a semiannual Regulations Agenda for publication in the Federal Register. The agenda summarizes all current and projected rulemaking, reviews of existing regulations and completed actions of the Department. These are matters on which action has begun or is projected during the succeeding twelve months or such longer period as may be anticipated or for which action has been completed since the last agenda.

The agendas are based on reports submitted by the initiating offices in January and July each year. After these reports are consolidated for, and reviewed by, the Department Regulations Council, the Department's Regulations Agenda is prepared and published in the Federal Register. The Department's last agenda was published in the Federal Register on April 27, 1987 (52 FR 14547). The next one is scheduled for publication in the Federal Register in April 1988.

Regulatory Flexibility Act

In 1980, Congress passed the Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA), Pub. L. 96-354, which requires the designation of those regulations for which a Regulatory Flexibility Analysis will be prepared, i.e., those regulations that would have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The heading "Small Entity" will indicate whether a Regulatory Flexibility Analysis is required by a "yes" or a "no." If a Regulatory Flexibility Analysis will be prepared for a particular rulemaking, that fact also will be noted under the heading "Analysis."

The RFA also requires that each year the Department publish a list of those regulations that have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities and are to be reviewed under the Act during the succeeding twelve months. The agenda includes those regulations to be reviewed under the RFA or those for which review has been concluded since the last agenda. A "yes" or "no" will be found under the heading "small entity," for each such regulation. It should be noted, however, that after a preliminary assessment of the regulations listed for RFA review, it may be found that the regulations, in fact, do not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities and a full RFA review will be unnecessary.

Definitions

The agenda covers all rules and regulations of the Department, including those that establish conditions for financial assistance. The following definitions are provided for ease in understanding the information in this document.

(1) Initiating office means an operating administration or other organizational element within the Department, the head of which is authorized by law or delegation to issue regulations or to formulate regulations for issuance by the Secretary.

(2) Significant regulation means a regulation that is not an emergency regulation and that in the judgment of the head of the initiating office, or the Secretary, or the Deputy Secretary

(a) Is a major regulation;

(b) Concerns a matter on which there is substantial public interest or controversy;

(c) Has a major impact on another operating administration or other parts of the Department or other Federal Agency;

(d) Has a substantial effect on State and local governments;

(e) Has a substantial impact on a major transportation safety problem;

(f) Initiates a substantial regulatory program or change in policy;

(g) Is substantially different from international requirements or standards; or

(h) Otherwise involves important Department policy.

(3) Major regulation means a significant regulation for which a Regulatory Impact Analysis is required to be prepared.

(4) Emergency regulation means (a) a regulation that, in the judgment of the head of the initiating office, circumstances require to be issued without notice and opportunity for public comment or made effective in less than 30 days after publication in the Federal Register; or (b) is governed by short-term statutory or judicial deadlines.

(5) Nonsignificant regulation means a regulation that, in the judgment of the head of the initiating office, is neither a significant nor an emergency regulation.

A preliminary and final Regulatory Impact Analysis is required for each proposed and final regulation, respectively; that

(1) Is likely to result in:

(a) An annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more;

(b) A major effect on the general economy in terms of costs, consumer prices, or production;

(c) A major increase in costs or prices for consumers; individual industries; Federal, State, or local government agencies; or geographic regions;

(d) Significant adverse effects on competition, employment, investment, productivity, innovation, or on the ability of United States-based enterprises to compete with foreign-based enterprises in domestic or export markets; or

(2) The Secretary or head of the initiating office determines requires such an analysis.

Explanation of Information on the Agenda

The format for this agenda is required by Office of Management and Budget Bulletin No. 86-16 (July 2, 1986).

First, the agenda is divided by initiating offices. Then, in accordance with the OMB Bulletin, for each initiating office the agenda is divided into four categories: (1) Prerule stage, (2) proposed rule stage, (3) final rule stage, and (4) completed actions. For each entry, the agenda provides the following information: (1) The "significance" of the action (i.e., whether it is significant because it is on the Regulatory Program or because of agency priority; or whether it is nonsignificant or routine and frequent); (2) a short descriptive title; (3) the legal basis for the action being taken or the regulation being reviewed; (4) the related regulatory citation in the Code of Federal Regulations; (5) an indication of any legal deadline; (6) an abstract of the review or the proposed or final regulation; (7) a timetable, including the earliest expected date for a decision on whether to issue the proposed or final regulation, or complete the review and determine the corrective action to be taken. (The action taken can be revocation or revision of the regulation, or it can be a determination that no regulatory action is necessary because the regulation is found to be achieving its goals and the goals and objectives of Executive Order 12291 and the Department's Regulatory Policies and Procedures.); (8) a statement as to whether the Regulatory Flexibility Act applies because of the rulemaking's effect on small entities; (9) if there is information that does not fit in the other categories, it will be included under a separate heading, entitled "Additional Information"; (10) a listing, where determined, of any analyses an initiating office will prepare or has prepared for the rulemaking document; e.g., a Regulatory Impact Analysis or Evaluation, an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS), a Regulatory Flexibility Analysis, or an Urban Impact Analysis. (It should be noted that, even though a Regulatory Impact Analysis is not required for some items on the agenda, the Department requires an economic analysis for all of its regulations. This economic analysis is contained in the Regulatory Evaluation if a Regulatory Impact Analysis is not prepared); (11) an agency contact office or official who can provide further information, including advice on how to obtain documents referenced in the agenda; and (12) a "RIN" number assigned solely to identify an individual action in the agenda.

For nonsignificant regulations issued routinely and frequently as a part of an established body of technical requirements (such as the Federal Aviation Administration's Airspace Rules) to keep those requirements operationally current, only the general category of the regulations, the identity of a contact office or official, and an indication of the expected number of regulations are included; individual regulations are not listed.

If a regulatory docket number has already been established, it may be provided under the "Additional Information" heading. If a member of the public desires further information regarding a particular proposal or regulation, reference should be made to this docket number.

In the "Timetable" column, abbreviations are used to indicate the particular documents being considered for issuance by that date. ANPRM stands for Advance Notice of Proposed Rulemaking, SNPRM for Supplemental Notice of Proposed Rulemaking, NPRM for Notice of Proposed Rulemaking, and FR for Final Rule. Listing a future date in this column is not an indication that a proposed or a final rule will be issued on that date; it is the earliest date on which a decision is expected to be made on whether to issue the document listed. Submittal of any proposed or final rule to the Office of Management and Budget for review, under Executive Order 12291, must follow such a decision. For major rules, this review could take 60 days or more. If any document is issued, publication in the Federal Register would follow within a few days. In addition, these dates are based on current schedules. Information received subsequent to the issuance of this agenda could result in a decision not to take regulatory action or in changes to proposed publication dates. For example, the need for further evaluation could result in a later publication date; evidence of a greater need for the regulation could result in an earlier publication date.

Finally, a dot (●) preceding an entry indicates that the entry appears in the agenda for the first time.

Mailing Lists for Regulatory Documents

To assist the public in obtaining regulatory documents issued within the Department of Transportation, an Appendix A has been included in this document. The appendix contains instructions on how to be placed on mailing lists for copies of regulatory documents, including the Department's Semiannual Regulations Agenda, issued by the operating administrations of the Department and the Office of the Secretary. There is no charge for this service; however, because of the costs involved, the number of copies of a document forwarded to an individual requestor may be limited. Persons already on mailing lists for particular documents within the Department will remain on those lists and should not reapply.

By following the instructions specified in the appendix, a person can be placed on a mailing list for future copies of the Department's Regulations Agenda, which will be updated and published in the Federal Register every year during April and October. By using the agenda, individuals can determine which Notice or Advance Notice of Proposed Rulemaking, to be issued by elements of the Department, is of interest to them. Then, using the instructions in the appendix, such persons also can be placed on a mailing list to ensure that, after the document of interest is issued, a copy will be mailed to them for their review and comment. In this way, individuals will be relieved of the burden of having to review the Federal Register, perhaps on a daily basis. The Department expects that this process will ensure that those people placed on mailing lists will receive early notice so that their views on the document can be adequately prepared and presented within the established comment period.

General Rulemaking Contact Persons

To assist persons desiring to obtain general information concerning the rulemaking process within the Department's operating administrations, an Appendix B has been added to the agenda. This appendix sets forth the addresses and the telephone numbers of the persons who can respond quickly to requests for general rulemaking information. Please note, however, that questions related to particular rulemaking actions should still be referred to the contact person listed with the particular rulemaking on the agenda.

Public Rulemaking Dockets

To facilitate the inspection of docket files and the submission of comments by the public, an Appendix C sets forth the addresses and working hours for the Rules Docket for each operating administration.

Request for Comments

Agenda

Our agenda is intended primarily for the use of the public. Since its inception, we have made modifications and refinements that we believe provide the public with more helpful information as well as make the agenda easier to use. We would also like you, the public, to make suggestions or comments on how the agenda could be further improved. For example, do you find the information presented in an easily understandable manner? Do you find it easy to follow a regulation's development from agenda to agenda? Do you find that the format for setting out the information enables you to use the agenda easily? Do you find that the presentation of the information in the agenda is clearly explained in the preamble to the agenda? Your responses to these questions or any other comments or suggestions you may have should be sent to Neil R. Eisner, whose address appears above.

Reviews

In an effort to comply further with the spirit of Executive Order 12291 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act, we are also seeking suggestions on existing regulations that should be included in our review of existing regulations; that is, which existing regulations issued by an operating administration of the Department or the Office of the Secretary do you believe need to be reviewed to determine whether they should be revised or revoked? The Department is particularly interested in obtaining information on requirements that have a "significant economic impact on small entities" and therefore, must be reviewed under the Regulatory Flexibility Act. If you have any suggested regulations, please send them, along with your explanation of why they should be reviewed, to the concerned operating administration or the Office of the Secretary, at the appropriate address noted in the "Addresses" paragraph above.

In accordance with the Regulatory Flexibility Act, comments are specifically invited on regulations that are targeted for review under the RFA. Those comments should be addressed to the "contact" person of the operating administration involved, at the appropriate address noted in the "Addresses" paragraph above.

Purpose

The Department is publishing this Regulations Agenda in the Federal Register to share with interested members of the public the Department's preliminary expectations regarding its future regulatory actions. This should enable the public to be more aware of the Department's regulatory activity. Knowledge of the nature and scope of this activity, as well as the specific proposals and reviews being considered, should result in more effective public participation in the Department's regulatory activity. For example, awareness of the dates when notices may be issued seeking public comment should allow appropriate planning and more efficient use of the comment period. By providing the expected date for a decision on whether to issue a final rule, the Department expects that more appropriate planning by those concerned with the regulation will also be possible. This publication in the Federal Register does not impose any binding obligation on the Department, or any of the offices within the Department, with regard to any specific item on the agenda. Regulatory action in addition to the items listed is not precluded. If further information is desired on any of the items listed in the agenda, the public is encouraged to contact the individual listed for the particular item. Additional information concerning the agenda, in general, or the Department's Regulatory Policies and Procedures may be obtained from Neil R. Eisner, whose address and telephone number appear above.

Issued in Washington, DC on September 21, 1987.

Elizabeth Hanford Dole,

Secretary of Transportation.

1604. + REVIEW OF DEPARTMENT-WIDE DRUG REGULATIONS

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: Not yet determined

CFR Citation: Not yet determined

Abstract: The Department will review existing regulations to determine whether changes are necessary for each of the Modal Administrations' drug regulations. The Department seeks to address the use of drugs through its regulatory authority. The review will encompass each Modal Administration's program.

1605. + CONSUMER PROTECTION FOR DEFAULT BY SCHEDULED AIR CARRIERS

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 49 USC 1371; 49 USC 1372; 49 USC 1381

CFR Citation: 00 CFR None

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: Transamerica petitioned the CAB to investigate ways to protect consumers against service defaults by scheduled air carriers in domestic, overseas, and foreign air transportation. Transamerica suggested that the Board condition the award of operating authority to perform direct carrier scheduled service on air carriers developing a default protection plan. For foreign air travel, it suggested that the obligation be limited to outbound flights. The petitioner argued that prompt action is necessary in order to ensure continued public confidence in scheduled air service and to protect passengers from unnecessary financial hardship. DOT is considering what action should be taken on the petition.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 49 USC 1371; 49 USC 1372; 49 USC 1381

CFR Citation: Not yet determined

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: This petition, filed by Mr. Theodore Harris, addresses the problem of airline passengers whose airline goes bankrupt after they bought their ticket but before they use it. The petitioner asks that airlines be required to protect such "unearned revenue" by escrowing it or by posting a bond in an amount equal to 150% of average unearned revenue. Exemptions could be granted to airlines which file evidence of ticket insurance plans or which enter into agreements with other airlines to accept the tickets of bankrupt carriers.

1608. AIR CARRIER CARGO TARIFF PUBLICATIONS

Significance: Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 49 USC 1324; 49 USC 1373; 49 USC 1482

CFR Citation: 14 CFR 221.171; 14 CFR 221.173

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: This petition proposes to amend the requirement that air carriers post cargo tariffs at stations, offices, and locations other than their principal office. The petitioners proposed to allow carriers to maintain a memorandum tariff at each location and have a toll-free number for shippers to obtain access to complete tariff information. Petitioners alleged that such a change would substantially reduce the cost and time burden of maintaining and continually updating voluminous files of current and past tariffs at each location. Further action on the proposal will depend on developments in rulemaking docket 43343, Electronic Filing of Tariffs, RIN 2105-AB00.

Significance: Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 49 USC 1373; 49 USC 1386

CFR Citation: 14 CFR 372

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The reference to tariffs in the rule governing Overseas Military Personnel Charters (OMPC) has become obsolete, at least with respect to domestic air transportation. The CAB was considering whether to eliminate the tariff requirement for all OMPC's and replace it with consumer-protection requirements similar to those in its Public Charter rule in Part 380. 1612. CARGO RATE CHANGES ON 30 DAYS' NOTICE

Significance: Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 49 USC 1373

CFR Citation: 14 CFR 221.160

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: This rule would amend regulations to allow cargo tariffs which are within the zones established under 14 CFR 399.41 to be filed on 30 days' notice. There are two alternatives: either maintain the status quo (60 days' notice) or change cargo tariff filing regulations to 30 days' notice to be consistent with passenger tariff-filing requirements. Standardization of the regulatory tariff-filing requirements for both cargo and passenger tariffs would benefit the industry.

1613. COMPREHENSIVE REVIEW OF CAB CONSUMER RULES

Significance: Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 49 USC 1301 et seq Federal Aviation Act of 1958, as amended

CFR Citation: 14 CFR 201.6; 14 CFR 203; 14 CFR 205; 14 CFR 221, Subpart N; 14 CFR 249; 14 CFR 250; 14 CFR 252; 14 CFR 253; 14 CFR 254; 14 CFR 296.6 and 297.30; 14 CFR 298.30; 14 CFR 379; 14 CFR 380; 14 CFR 382; 14 CFR 399, Subpart G

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The Civil Aeronautics Board was an independent agency; its rules have now been transferred to DOT, a cabinet department. This review will identify any CAB rules which are not consistent with Department or Administration regulatory criteria, such as those that impose an unnecessarily high cost or those with paperwork burdens that can be reduced or which involve a level of benefits or costs which are either higher or lower than necessary. The review will examine all alternatives, from strengthening a given rule to eliminating it. Nonregulatory approaches, including the supplying of information by the Government, or regulation by another level of government, will be also considered. The benefits and costs will be known only after these alternatives have been developed. This review is a priority because it involves important departmental policy.

Legal Authority: 49 USC 1371; 49 USC 1381

CFR Citation: 14 CFR 380.30(e); 14 CFR 399.84

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The DOT rules cited above state that any price stated for air transportation, a tour or a tour component must be the entire price for that transportation, tour or component. In this petition, Mr. Donald Pevsner complains that some tour operators advertise prices which do not include additional features which must be purchased and which cost extra. He asks that the rules be amended to state that such additional features may only be priced separately if they may be purchased separately, i.e., if they are optional rather than mandatory.

1615. + ELECTRONIC FILING OF TARIFFS

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 49 USC 1373

CFR Citation: 14 CFR 221

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: DOT will examine whether conversion from a paper document system to a computerized system of filing and monitoring air carrier tariffs can reduce paper flow, speed up processing, and allow the industry to utilize computer and telecommunications technology to communicate with DOT. The alternative is to maintain the current paper tariffs system. Potential savings to the industry may be greater than to the Government, since airlines already utilize automated fare and rate systems. In addition, airlines may be able to implement changes faster, thus responding more quickly to market conditions, and may be less burdened with the cost of producing and transmitting paper documents. The Department may reduce paper flow, experience savings in processing time and staffing, and improve the accuracy and control of tariff data. In order to assure that users' needs are taken into consideration and that the private sector is involved to the maximum extent in the design, implementation, and operation of such a system, the Department established an Advisory Committee to make continuing recommendations on technical, operational, and policy objectives of the electronic tariff system.

Abstract: The Department is reviewing its regulation establishing a minority business enterprise (MBE) program in its financial assistance programs (49 CFR Part 23). This regulation has been controversial, is of interest to most DOT grant recipients and contractors, and affects the operations of all DOT financial assistance programs. Section 106(c) of the Surface Transportation and Uniform Relocation Assistance Act of 1987 extended and modified the program as applied to FHWA and UMTA; similar legislation is currently under consideration in Congress for the FAA. The DOT intends to publish final rule to make the changes required by the 1987 Act and subsequently issue an NPRM that would propose further changes in the regulation.

CFR Citation: 49 CFR 27; 14 CFR 382

Legal Deadline: Statutory, January 30, 1987.

Abstract: The Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) has a regulation providing protection of the rights of handicapped air travellers. Based on recent Congressional action, DOT began enforcing this regulation on January 1, 1985. The Supreme Court's decision in U.S. Department of Transportation v. Paralyzed Veterans of America held that Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 does not apply to nonsubsidized air carriers. This decision left the existing regulation intact. The Air Carrier Access Act of 1986 directed DOT to publish new regulations prohibiting disability-based discrimination in air travel. The Department will use comments received in response to its August 1986 information notice on issues affecting blind passengers as part of the record for this rulemaking. The Department has convened an advisory committee and is pursuing this rulemaking through a negotiated rulemaking process.

Abstract: Persons authorized to conduct commercial launch activities by a license issued by OCST are required to have in effect at least that amount of third-party liability insurance prescribed by DOT for the licensed activity. In addition, launch firms must secure an amount of insurance, or offer other assurance, that will be adequate to protect the Government when its property or personnel are directly involved in the conduct of commercial launch activities. Abstract: The CAB proposed new charter rules for direct and indirect air carriers. The proposed rules retain the financial protections of existing rules for direct air carriers while eliminating rules restricting the types of groups (such as "affinity" or "single-entity") to whom charters may be sold. The proposal would also retain a security instrument and depository system for indirect air carriers, along with contract rules for public protection. The proposal also highlights depository bank and travel agent responsibilities in handling passenger funds. The proposal replaces one made earlier. DOT is considering what action should be taken.

Abstract: The proposed regulation would set forth requirements and procedures for all State Departments of Transportation (DOTs) equal employment opportunity compliance programs. It would also consolidate FHWA, FRA, and UMTA responsibilities in this area. This proposed regulation is significant because it would affect the equal opportunity employment programs of all State transportation agencies. It is needed because OST, FHWA, FRA, and UMTA each have responsibility for implementing the equal employment opportunity programs of State DOTs. Abstract: This regulation would implement the 1978 amendments to section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 which made its prohibition of discrimination on the ground of handicap applicable to the directly conducted programs of Federal agencies as well as to their financial assistance programs. The rule would apply to DOT facilities, personnel practices, and regulatory programs. It would be based on a model rule developed by the Department of Justice. The rule would also apply to DOT activities and functions transferred from the Civil Aeronautics Board after that agency's "sunset." Abstract: The CAB proposed to amend its rules requiring notice of contract terms for domestic travel to require that actual notice be given passengers of terms absolving carriers from any responsibility to transport a passenger to the destination named on the ticket, or to reimburse the passenger for expenses in reaching the airport noted on the ticket when a flight is diverted to another airport in the same metropolitan area. Alternatively, the Board proposed to declare it to be an unfair and deceptive practice to divert a passenger without arranging and paying for alternate transportation to the destination airport named on the passenger's ticket. Abstract: The American Association of Airport Executives, the Airport Operators Council International and the Air Transport Association of America petitioned the CAB to simplify its counter-sign requirements. Presently, airlines are required to display four different consumer protection notices on their ticket counters. The petitioners alleged that the current notices are hard to read and, therefore, do not provide much notice to passengers. They proposed replacing the four notices with one simplified counter sign. The CAB adopted an NPRM that proposed a number of alternatives, such as a long and/or short notice, where the notices would be required to be posted and whether a smoking notice should be included. Abstract: The Department must now routinely decide issues of name similarity whenever an airline wishes to use a different name for its operations or a new applicant wishes to use a name for its proposed operations. The issue arises even where there is no evidence that use of a certain name will cause or has caused confusion with an existing name. The current rule is duplicative of other statutes. The issue can be decided privately without routine, active government intervention, or can be handled on a case-by-case basis. The proposed rule would 1) delete specific criteria for decisions on name cases, 2) emphasize ad hoc enforcement, and 3) change the rule to make it a form of registration. Removal of routine intervention would reduce delay in applications for name changes. It would not result in less protection for travelers when there is a real need for action.

It also addressed records relating to those functions of the Civil Aeronautics Board that were transferred to the Department . This rulemaking is significant because of substantial public interest. Abstract: This notice asks comment on several alternatives for providing accessible commuter rail service, or a substitute for it, to disabled persons. The notice also requests information on the likely ridership and cost effects of the alternative approaches suggested in the notice. Comments have been received and are being reviewed. Studies have been received or are expected to be received in the near future. 1634. TITLE VI CIVIL RIGHTS REGULATION

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2000d-4

CFR Citation: 49 CFR 21

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: In 1981, the Department proposed a consolidation and expansion of its existing Title VI regulation (49 CFR Part 21). Few comments were received on this NPRM, and a final regulation was never published. The Department reviewed the existing regulation to determine if changes were needed. It was concluded that the Department can continue to enforce Title VI appropriately through the existing regulation. Consequently the Department does not anticipate further rulemaking action, and intends to withdraw the NPRM.

Significance: Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: EO 11625; EO 12138; 45 USC 803; PL 95-507

CFR Citation: 49 CFR 23

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: As part of the NPRM that proposed its minority business program rule (49 CFR Part 23), the Department proposed rules concerning minority business involvement in direct DOT procurement. However, because of the program established by Public Law 95-507, these proposed rules became unnecessary, and were never finalized. That program provides for subcontracting plans and goals in certain direct Federal contracts as well as for disadvantaged business set-asides under the Small Business Administration 8(a) program. The Department intends to withdraw this proposal.

Abstract: The current DOT MBE rule provides that recipients and contractors may receive a maximum of 20 percent credit for the cost of goods purchased from MBE suppliers who do not manufacture the goods. The Department is considering regulatory changes to correct unintended anomalies that may have resulted from this approach. The Department published an NPRM on this rule October 3, 1985, and now anticipates taking final action as part of a final rule to be issued to implement section 106(c) of the Surface Transportation and Uniform Relocation Assistance Act of 1987. Significance: Nonsignificant

CFR Citation: 14 CFR 207; 14 CFR 208

Abstract: This rule would make direct air carriers responsible for returning charter passengers stranded by strikes or other interruptions of their services by eliminating the force majeure clause from charter contracts. However, the Department is considering a comprehensive proposal (RIN 2105-AA41 in this agenda) to revise and simplify air charter rules. The Department's final action in this proceeding will be consistent with the comprehensive review of the charter rule.

Significance: Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 49 USC 1302; 49 USC 1324; 49 USC 1376; 49 USC 1551(b)(1)(D)

CFR Citation: 14 CFR 233, (Proposed)

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: This proposed rule would end the current practice of prescribing fixed rates for the transportation of mail by air, and in its place establish zones for each category of mail. Each zone would be defined by maximum and minimum rates prescribed by DOT, and airlines would be free to contract with the Postal Service for the carriage of mail at any price within the zone. The rule is now moot with regard to domestic mail rates except in Alaska.

1641. AIR TRAVELERS: AGE DISCRIMINATION

Significance: Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6102

CFR Citation: 14 CFR 376, (Proposed)

Abstract: This rule will prohibit discrimination against air travelers on the basis of age and implement the Age Discrimination Act of 1975. A final rule was adopted by the CAB on April 10, 1980, and was forwarded to the Secretary of HHS for approval, as required by the Age Discrimination Act. The rule was approved by HHS on July 13, 1984, with changes. However, these changes have not been incorporated. DOT is considering combining this rulemaking with a broader DOT age discrimination rule on which work is now under way.

1642. POLICY STATEMENT ON AIRLINE PREEMPTION

Significance: Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 49 USC 1305

Abstract: This rule will set out Department policies for regulation of the rates, routes, and services of airlines that have interstate authority. The CAB concluded that under section 105 of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958 it, not the States, was responsible for economic regulation (or deregulation, as the case may be) of all the routes, rates, or services of any airline holding either (i) a certificate of public convenience and necessity to provide interstate air transportation, or (ii) an exemption under section 416 of the Act from the requirement for such a certificate.

Abstract: This rule would set the minimum per-person aircraft accident liability insurance limits for U.S. and Canadian on-demand air taxi operators at $150,000, instead of at $300,000 as it is for other air carriers. The NPRM further includes alternative proposals to set the per-person limit at $75,000 or $100,000 or to eliminate all minimum amounts, requiring a public notice instead. Other rules for insurance coverage for these carriers would be as in 14 CFR Part 205, including the prohibition on safety-related exclusions.

Abstract: Certain large air carriers are required to report data on flights serving specified airports and data on mishandled baggage to the Department. They also must provide an on-time performance summary by flight to computerized reservation system (CRS) vendors for display in primary CRS screens. Legal Authority: 33 USC 1231; 43 USC 1331; 46 USC 6101; 46 USC 6103

Abstract: This notice proposes regulations which would: 1) require the owner, charterer, managing operator, agent, master, or person in charge of a commercial vessel (designated the "marine employer") to obtain blood, urine, and breath samples as appropriate from persons directly involved in certain serious marine incidents, within prescribed time limits; 2) define the serious marine incident criteria for which this requirement would be applicable; 3) require the marine employer to ship blood and urine samples to a laboratory designated by the Coast Guard for appropriate chemical analysis; and, 4) establish procedures regarding accountability for and processing of blood and urine samples from the time of sampling to the time of receipt of samples at the laboratory. The Coast Guard believes that these proposed regulations are necessary to better identify the extent of alcohol and drug involvement as primary or contributing causes of serious incidents, i.e., those which result in death, injury or significant property or environmental damage; to emphasize the seriousness with which the Federal Government views the problems of alcohol and drug use and abuse in the marine (cont.)

Abstract: Rulemaking would redefine and establish more stringent qualifying criteria for individuals engaged in transporting and transferring various categories of oil and dangerous liquid cargoes. The Port and Tanker Safety Act of 1978 mandated the establishment of personnel qualification and manning standards for tank vessels. In addition, the International Convention on the Standards for Training, Certification, and Watchkeeping for Seafarers (STCW), 1978 has entered into effect and establishes international standards for tank vessel personnel qualifications.

Abstract: Recreational boat use of Channel 16, a distress and safety frequency on the Great Lakes, has become so great that commercial vessels have been having difficulty communicating navigational information. The Coast Guard is considering making modifications to the existing radiotelephone requirements. Draft changes have been exchanged between the Canadian and U.S. Coast Guards to change the technical regulations of the Great Lakes Radio agreement. Review and re-exchange of drafts currently being considered. Both governments agree on channel 13. Sequential monitoring will not be accepted by either government as filling the requirements of a "continuous watch." Which size and type of vessels that will be required to monitor channel 13 needs to be clarified.

CFR Citation: 46 CFR 125 to 136; 46 CFR 170; 46 CFR 173; 46 CFR 174

Abstract: The Coast Guard is proposing regulations that will establish safety standards for self-elevating offshore service vessels commonly known as liftboats. The high rate of casualties which have been experienced by these vessels has emphasized the need for specific regulations addressing the hazards inherent in their operations.

These vessels support the offshore mineral and energy industry by performing a multitude of services such as dive support, painting, sandblasting and well servicing, among others. In performing these services, these vessels fall within the statutory definition of Offshore Supply Vessels (OSV) and are therefore subject to inspection as OSVs. The Coast Guard will consider using existing standards wherever possible, particularly those that have and are being applied to conventional OSVs. However, because of the unique design and operating characteristics exhibited by these liftboats, many of the current regulations used to inspect and certificate conventional OSVs are inadequate to ensure the safe operation of these vessels. The Coast Guard believes that development and enforcement of standards specifically addressing these (CONT)

Additional Information: unique hull forms and operating characteristics will significantly improve their safety record. These rules are not expected to impose substantial costs on industry. On February 14, 1983, the Coast Guard published an ANPRM concerning new construction of Offshore Supply Vessels (OSVs)(48 FR 6636). The information in the ANPRM presents the Coast Guard's overall approach with respect to developing comprehensive standards for conventional offshore supply vessels as contrasted with liftboats and other nonconventional OSVs. On March 7, 1985, the Coast Guard published an ANPRM on Revision of the Regulations on Outer Continental Shelf Activities (50 FR 9290). That ANPRM (CGD 84-098) solicited specific comments regarding appropriate standards that should be applied to the various types of vessels used for OCS activities. Some comments were received that addressed liftboats. These comments will be considered with the comments received in response to this rulemaking effort.

Abstract: The Coast Guard periodically issues rules listing additional cargoes which may be carried on tank vessels. Since this action is recurrent, the Coast Guard has established a continuing docket for this type of action. Notices for this rule are anticipated in Jan./Feb. of each year. Final rules will be completed prior to September 30 of each year.

Abstract: Limited visibility from the navigation bridge of vessels has been identified as a factor in vessel casualties and near-misses. This action would establish standards for acceptable limits of visibility based on existing international guidelines. Because the primary focus is on new vessel design, costs are estimated to be minimal compared to potential benefits in casualties prevented.

So many revisions were necessary that it was better to make several small and easily identifiable projects rather than a large and confusing one. Significance: Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 33 USC 1223(a)(5)

CFR Citation: 33 CFR 160

Abstract: This revision to 33 CFR 160 Subpart C would require advance notices from all foreign commercial vessels of less than 1600 gross tons bound for parts or places in the Miami Captain of the Port zone. Currently 33 CFR 160.201(c)(1) excepts all vessels of less than 1600 gross tons from reporting advance notices of arrival. The revision would require vessels of more than 1600 gross tons to provide to the COTP crew makeup and charter information at least 24 hours prior to entering ports or places within the COTP zone. The revision would also delete the advance-notice requirement that ships bound for ports and places on the Great Lakes

Abstract: Various laws, international agreements, and Coast Guard regulations require the posting of specific certificates, licenses, plans, operating instructions, and warnings onboard vessels. CFR Citation: 33 CFR 179.01 to 179.19

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: This rulemaking would require marine dealers to furnish boat and engine manufacturers with serial numbers of new boats and engines sold and the names and addresses of retail first purchasers of those products. Manufacturers would use the information to locate purchasers of boats and engines recalled for defects which create a substantial risk of personal injury to the public and for failures to comply with applicable regulations. Currently many manufacturers cannot obtain sufficient first-purchaser information and their attempts to notify during recalls are inadequate.

Abstract: Would modify 33 CFR Subchapter N by requiring owners/operators of fixed OCS facilities to conduct an annual inspection for compliance with Coast Guard regulations and report the results of the self-inspection to the Coast Guard on a Coast Guard-provided form. This proposal minimizes cost to the industry and, by allowing available Coast Guard resources to be concentrated on program oversight and on those operations with poor safety records would improve safety on the OCS.

Significance: Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 46 USC 3306(a)

CFR Citation: 46 CFR 160

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The Coast Guard is revising the specifications for approval of exposure suits. Existing approvals for exposure suits under 46 CFR 160.071 would be terminated on the effective date of these regulations and new approval would be issued for immersion suits under 46 CFR 160.171 after supplemental testing. Existing vessels could continue to use exposure suits approved under 46 CFR 160.071 as long as the suits remain serviceable. Ships, the construction or conversion of which started on or after July 1, 1986, would be required to have immersion suits approved under 46 CFR 160.071. The changes are needed to conform the regulations to the International Convention for Safety of Life at Sea, 1974, as amended (SOLAS 74/83). This rule was suspended to incorporate two additional changes regarding immersion suit testing.

Significance: Nonsignificant

CFR Citation: 14 CFR 67

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: These regulations specify the medical standards which must be met before a medical certificate is issued to an airman. For example, a medical certificate is required before a person can obtain a pilot license. During rulemaking involving these regulations, a considerable number of commenters expressed the belief that the current standards should and could be revised to state, in generally applicable objective terms, all those circumstances in which the FAA will issue medical certificates. In the past, some certificates have been issued on a case-by-case basis, with appropriate limitations, under exemption and waiver provisions where strict compliance with the existing standards was not essential in the interest of safety. A comprehensive review of these regulations is necessary to determine if the commenters' arguments are correct. If they are and the requested regulatory changes are possible, it could greatly reduce burdens, both on the FAA and airmen, associated with the processing of medical certificates.

CFR Citation: 14 CFR 135

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: This notice proposes to require that all turbojet-powered airplanes operated in accordance with Part 121 have airborne systems that warn a flightcrew of the presence of low-altitude windshear conditions and then provide flight guidance to follow that would produce the optimal flight path for a missed approach procedure. This proposal would require that any Part 121 operator using an approved simulator as a part of its training program develop a specific windshear-related simulator flight training course for its flightcrews. This proposal would require that Part 121 and 135 operators using an approved training program include training concerning the low-altitude windshear phenomenon as a part of their normal ground training. Low-altitude windshear has been a prime causal factor in numerous air carrier accidents and possibly has contributed to a number of general aviation accidents.

Legal Authority: 49 USC 1344 Federal Aviation Act of 1958, Sec. 303; 49 USC 1354(a) Federal Aviation Act of 1958, Sec. 313(a); 49 USC 1355 Federal Aviation Act of 1958, Sec. 314; 49 USC 1421 Federal Aviation Act of 1958, Sec. 601; 49 USC 1423 Federal Aviation Act of 1958, Sec. 603; 49 USC 1424 Federal Aviation Act of 1958, Sec. 604; 49 USC 1425 Federal Aviation Act of 1958, Sec. 605; 49 USC 1428 Federal Aviation Act of 1958, Sec. 608; 49 USC 1429 Federal Aviation Act of 1958, Sec. 609; 49 USC 1430 Federal Aviation Act of 1958, Sec. 610; 49 USC 106(g); PL 97-449

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: This project proposes to amend the rotorcraft airworthiness standards in Parts 27 and 29 of the FAR. These proposals would add two dynamic crash-impact design requirement conditions for seat and occupant restraint systems, increase the static design load factors for seating devices and items of mass in the cabin or adjacent to the cabin as prescribed, prescribe a shoulder harness for each occupant, and add human impact injury criteria for the dynamic crash-impact conditions. These proposals are intended to significantly improve occupant protection levels in a survivable emergency landing impact.

1794. + PROPOSED DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY PROHIBITED AREAS

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 49 USC 1348(a) Federal Aviation Act of 1958, Sec. 307(a); 49 USC 1354(a) Federal Aviation Act of 1958, Sec. 313(a); 49 USC 106(g) Revised, Pub. L. 97-449, January 12, 1983

CFR Citation: 14 CFR 11.65; 14 CFR 73

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The proposed establishment or modification of prohibited airspace over these sites is one segment of a Department of Energy (DOE) comprehensive effort to enhance the protection of vital nuclear weapons research, development, and production facilities. If established, helicopter operations at any altitude over the designated sites would be prohibited without prior DOE authorization. This rulemaking is significant because it may be controversial. A summary of written and oral comments received in response to notices and hearings was sent to the DOE February 22, 1985, for them to address. DOE has conducted an indepth review of security at all sites. A draft final report is undergoing internal DOE coordination. Upon completion, DOE will decide if they will proceed with, modify, or withdraw part or all of their request for a proposed rule.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 49 USC 1303 Federal Aviation Act of 1958, Sec. 103; 49 USC 1348 Federal Aviation Act of 1958, Sec. 307; 49 USC 1354(a) Federal Aviation Act of 1958, Sec. 313(a); 49 USC 1421(a) Federal Aviation Act of 1958, Sec. 601(a); 14 CFR 11.49

CFR Citation: 14 CFR 93

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: This proposed rule is designed to alleviate increased delays throughout the air traffic system. If implemented, the FAA would alter current airline scheduling through a lottery process to more evenly space arrivals and departures throughout the day. Alternatives include voluntary schedule changes by the airlines. The rule, or the alternatives, would benefit the airline industry and the public by limiting delays. This regulation is significant because of its involvement with important departmental policy.

1796. + PROPOSED LIMITS ON THE GROWTH OF NOISE FROM CERTAIN AIRPLANES AND AIRPLANE TYPES

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 49 USC 1354(a) Federal Aviation Act of 1958, Sec. 313(a); 49 USC 1421(a) Federal Aviation Act of 1958, Sec. 601(a); 49 USC 1423 Federal Aviation Act of 1958, Sec. 603; 49 USC 1431(b) Federal Aviation Act of 1958, Sec. 611(b); 49 USC 1421 et seq National Environmental Policy Act, Title I; EO 11514; 49 USC 106(g)

CFR Citation: 14 CFR 36; 14 CFR 91

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: Would revise both noise certification standards and operating noise rules to ensure that aircraft certificated within certain broad noise groups or "stages" remain within those stages. Those proposals would apply to transport category large aircraft and to turbojet powered aircraft regardless of category. The proposed rule would prohibit modification of both individual airplanes and whole airplane types where those modifications would result in the growth of noise beyond the limits of the airplane's current stage. While the proposal would not restrict airplane changes that result in lower noise, it would in some cases prohibit re-modification of those aircraft to return to their original noise levels. The FAA believes that these rules are necessary to correct a defect in the current regulations and to protect airports, aircraft operators and the public from the effects of that defect. This rulemaking is significant because of intense public interest.

Abstract: NPRM will propose to establish standards for transport category airplanes, to limit the distance a passenger seat may be from an exit, and the distance between adjacent exits. Purpose is to ensure passengers do not have to traverse excessive distances to escape the aircraft in an emergency, and to prevent U.S. carriers from deactivating the overwing exits of the Boeing 747. Escape-path distance was a major issue of the recent Emergency Evacuation Task Force. Current regulations do not limit escape-path distance. Action is significant because of substantial public interest associated with issues involving aircraft passenger safety.

1801. + FLIGHT ATTENDANT REQUIREMENTS DURING DEPLANING AND BOARDING

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: None

CFR Citation: 14 CFR 121

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: This action proposes to revise the regulation dealing with the required number of flight attendants to clarify the original intent of the regulation. The current regulations are confusing and not clearly understood. The proposed amendments would clarify the number of flight attendants required when passengers are onboard an airplane, including during boarding and deplaning. The proposals would allow for a reduced number of flight attendants onboard an airplane during specified periods. The proposals would specify the conditions to be met to reduce the number of flight attendants at these stops. Additionally, the proposals would allow other authorized persons to be substituted for the required flight attendants at these stops, and the proposals would clearly establish the requirements for training for those authorized persons. The FAA proposes a new rule that would clarify where the required flight attendants and other persons must be located when they are onboard the airplane.

This supplemental notice proposes to permit rotorcraft and nonturbine powered airplanes (for which a master minimum equipment list has not been developed), that are not being utilized in an air carrier operation, to be operated with certain inoperative instruments and equipment. CFR Citation: 14 CFR 21; 14 CFR 65; 14 CFR 107; 14 CFR 121; 14 CFR 135; 14 CFR 145

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: This action would amend various sections of the regulations. Some of the amendments are clarifying or editorial in nature or correct improper or obsolete references. Others relax certain existing requirements. Others allow issuance of special flight permits for an additional purpose, relax a requirement for passenger information signs, and eliminate the bulk erasure device on cockpit voice recorders. This action is in response to numerous complaints, suggestions, and petitions for exemption concerning several regulatory requirements received from users of the National Airspace System. These users state that these sections contain obsolete references and vague, complex, and inadequate language and that, in some instances, the cost of compliance is not justified by the benefits derived.

CFR Citation: 14 CFR 21

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: This notice would propose to amend the Federal Aviation Regulations to permit certain aircraft product changes to be accomplished under amended type certification or supplemental type certification procedure in lieu of applying for a new type certificate. The granting of several exemptions emphasized the need for a review of established criteria mandating an application for a new type certificate. The availability of advanced, high performance, light-weight engines and superior replacement systems requires this rule change for the upgrading of older seasoned designs to increase safety, utility, performance, and reliability, and reduce operational cost. The rule remains unchanged for aircraft product modifications which are so extensive that a substantially complete investigation of compliance is required.

Abstract: Part 36 prescribes noise standards for type certification of airplanes. A new generation of aircraft powered by prop-fan engines may present a noise problem that is not currently addressed by Part 36 in that enroute noise at cruise altitude (25,000 to 30,000 ft) may require a new standard. Legal Authority: 49 USC 1344; 49 USC 1354(a); 49 USC 1355; 49 USC 1421; 49 USC 1423; 49 USC 1424; 49 USC 1425; 49 USC 1428; 49 USC 1429; 49 USC 1430; 49 USC 106(g); PL 97-449; 49 CFR 1.47(a)

CFR Citation: 14 CFR 25

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: This notice proposes to amend Part 25 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (FAR) to upgrade the structural requirements for transport category airplane pressurized cabins by (1) amending the criteria for evaluation of the secondary effects of openings in the pressure vessel, and (2) extending the area of consideration to include openings anywhere within the pressure vessel. The required opening sizes to be considered would not be changed. The proposal is the result of an FAA review of the pressurized cabin load requirements and is intended to make the pressurized cabin load requirements less design-dependent and more objective. It would require evaluation of openings in any pressurized compartment and examination of the effects of differential pressure loads on any critical structure inside or outside of the pressurized cabin.

CFR Citation: 14 CFR 25; 14 CFR 121

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: This notice proposes to modify the procedures for conducting an emergency evacuation demonstration by requiring that the flight-crew take no active role in the demonstration and changing the age/sex distribution requirement for demonstration participants. This notice also proposes to standardize the illumination requirements for the handles of the various types of passenger emergency exits. In addition, it is proposed to add a requirement for a "push to talk" switch to the public address system. These proposals are intended to enhance the provisions of transport category airplanes for egress of occupants during emergency conditions.

Additional Information: This project was initiated on June 25, 1975, in response to a GAO evaluation of the FAA's Airport Certification Program and the result it has on improving the safety of airports. Recent delays have occurred due to industry concerns over aviation fueling responsibilities. FAA has reviewed proposals presented by a group of aviation organizations and changes have been made to the NPRM. The NPRM was published in the Federal Register on October 23, 1985. The comment period closed on January 21, 1986.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 49 USC 1354(a) Federal Aviation Act of 1958, Sec. 313(a); 49 USC 1355 Federal Aviation Act of 1958, Sec. 314; 49 USC 1421 Federal Aviation Act of 1958, Sec. 601; 49 USC 1422 Federal Aviation Act of 1958, Sec. 602

CFR Citation: 14 CFR 61

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: This final rule would establish a recreational pilot certificate which would allow a student pilot to receive certification to fly certain aircraft after fewer hours of training than are currently required of a private pilot applicant. The recreational pilot certificate is intended to be a low-cost alternative to a private pilot certificate for persons interested in flying basic, experimental, or homebuilt aircraft in close proximity to a home airport that is not in airspace in which communication with an air traffic control facility is required. The rule would also establish an annual flight review requirement for noninstrument-rated private pilots with fewer than 400 flight hours.

National Environmental Policy Act, Title I; EO 11514

CFR Citation: 14 CFR 21; 14 CFR 36

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: Would revise noise certification standards for aircraft to add provisions applicable to helicopters. These would apply to civil helicopters in the normal, transport, and restricted categories, and would provide noise-level limits and test procedures for the issuance of new and amended type certificates. It would also prohibit changes in type design of helicopters that might increase their noise levels beyond certain limits. Although this notice contains several provisions similar to those in an earlier notice, which was withdrawn in 1981, it differs from that notice in several important aspects. One is the absence of any limit on manufacture of older non-conforming types; another is the increased commonality between these proposed standards and those adopted by the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO).

Additional Information: Part 36 of the Federal Aviation Regulations (14 CFR Part 36) contains noise standards for aircraft type and airworthiness certification. As the part is currently organized, Subparts B and C and Appendices A, B, and C apply to transport category large airplane and subsonic turbojet-powered airplanes regardless of category. Appendix F contains the provisions applicable to propeller-driven light airplanes. This notice proposes to prescribe noise levels and test procedures for civil helicopters certificated in the normal, transport, and restricted categories. These proposals include rules governing the issuance of new and amended type certificates for helicopters for which application is made on and after the publication date of this notice. The proposed rule would prohibit certain growth or other design changes if those changes might result in noise levels beyond prescribed limits. The proposed rule also provides the test conditions and procedures for conducting helicopter noise tests to demonstrate compliance with the prescribed noise levels.

Significance: Agency Priority

CFR Citation: 14 CFR 21; 14 CFR 36

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: Would revise noise certification standards for propeller-driven small airplanes to substitute the use of actual takeoff tests for the level flyover tests currently specified. This proposal would revise test procedures applicable to noise certification tests conducted on or after January 1, 1988. It would also revise the noise-level limit numbers to approximate the equivalent of the sound levels measured and corrected in accordance with the current standard. These proposals result from industry requests for certification to be more directly based upon typical inservice noise measurements and from studies conducted in several nations over a three-year period under the auspices of the International Civil Aviation Organization. In addition, the FAA proposes to exempt antique airplanes and changes involving the addition of floats or skis from the acoustical change measurement and documentation requirements of Part 21. This regulation is significant because of substantial public interest.

CFR Citation: 14 CFR 43; 14 CFR 61; 14 CFR 91

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: These amendments discontinue classifying glider and balloon assembly as preventive maintenance, except in certain circumstances; add training requirements for pilots in preflight assembly of gliders and balloons, and add preflight assembly and post assembly inspections to the preflight responsibilities for glider and balloon pilots. The amendments are needed to ensure the continued assignment of responsibilities for preflight assembly and inspection of gliders and balloons while simultaneously reducing the recording burden on the public.

Abstract: The FHWA has initiated rulemaking to address the use of onboard recording devices in motor vehicles operating in interstate commerce. This action is being taken in response to a petition filed by the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety (IIHS) on 2/25/87. The original IIHS petition (10/86) requested that the FHWA require motor carriers to use onboard recording devices for recording the driver's hours of service. This rulemaking is considered significant because of the substantial public interest involved.

Abstract: The FHWA is requesting comments on a proposal which would mandate chemical testing of interstate drivers of commercial motor vehicles for the use of drugs. The impetus for this action is the safety and health concern associated with the use of drugs by these personnel. The goal of the proposed rule is to reduce accidents and casualties that result from the use of drugs. This NPRM was preceded by two drug rulemaking actions which were published in the Federal Register on 5/13/86 (BMCS Docket No. MC-116, Amendment No. 83-17, 51 FR 17568; BMCS Docket No. MC-120, Notice No. 86-3, 51 FR 17572). The latter of those actions proposed a drug test plan (much less comprehensive than proposed here) for drivers of hazardous materials. The former requested comments on specific questions regarding the various aspects of a drug control program applicable to interstate drivers. The intent of this NPRM is to consolidate the subject matter of the previous actions and propose a comprehensive drug control program applicable to all drivers in interstate commerce. Abstract: The Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) is considering proposing to revise Part 399 of the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Regulations (FMCSR) to implement Section 206 of the Motor Carrier Safety Act of 1984. This proposal would establish the duties of employers and drivers regarding employee safety and health. A motor carrier would be responsible for furnishing to each driver a place of employment that is free from recognized hazards that cause or are likely to cause death or injury to drivers. A driver would be responsible for cooperating with a motor carrier's safety program. It is anticipated that this general duty rule will cover those aspects of the driver environment (such as hot surfaces, lack of insulation, and broken equipment in or on the vehicle) that are not covered by present standards under the FMCSR.

Abstract: The FHWA is seeking comments on a request to designate boat transporters as specialized equipment under provision of section 411(d) of the Surface Transportation Assistance Act of 1982 (STAA). Of prime concern are comments and information on the following issues relating to boat transporters: maneuvering characteristics, safety, control, offtracking, crosswind effects, and the need for overall length limits on boat transporters. Information on the similarities and dissimilarities between boat transporters and auto transporters would be most helpful as would information on the consistency of truck configurations used for hauling boats. The FHWA would also appreciate comments regarding the need to preempt current State regulation of this vehicle, as well as an actual definition and description of boat transporters. Comments are also being sought on the types of vehicles that should be considered as specialized equipment as well as an actual definition.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: PL 99-570, Sec 12008; 49 USC App. 2505; 49 USC 3102

CFR Citation: 49 CFR 383; 49 CFR 391

Legal Deadline: Statutory, October 27, 1988.

Abstract: The FHWA is requesting comments from interested parties concerning the establishment of a commercial driver blood alcohol concentration (BAC) standard. This action is in response to Congress' enactment of the Commercial Motor Vehicle Safety Act of 1986 (Act). Section 12008 of the Act calls for the National Academy of Sciences (NAS) to conduct a study of the appropriateness of selecting one of several alternative BAC levels as the level at which a person operating a commercial motor vehicle would be deemed to be driving under the influence of alcohol. Based on the results of the study and the rulemaking comments, the Secretary of Transportation must promulgate a commercial driver BAC standard. States would be required to enact laws providing that any driver who operates a commercial motor vehicle at the Federal BAC level or above it is deemed to be driving under the influence of alcohol. States not enacting a BAC-level law for commercial motor vehicle drivers risk the loss of Federal-aid highway funds. The comments received will be made available to the NAS and will serve as the docket comments, along with the NAS study for a future Notice of Proposed Rulemaking.

Abstract: The FHWA is considering proposing revisions to the requirements for private motor carriers of passengers and the drivers of private motor vehicles of passengers. The proposed revisions would require private motor carriers of passengers and drivers of private motor vehicles of passengers to operate under the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Regulations (FMCSR). However, the paperwork burden of these requirements will be minimized and several parts of the FMCSR will not apply to either private motor carriers of passengers or to drivers of such vehicles. This rulemaking is significant in that it is controversial, involving bringing new carriers under the regulatory scheme.

Abstract: The FHWA has determined that the issues associated with its authority to permit motor carriers to self-insure need to be examined in light of the insurance crisis affecting the motor carrier industry. The FHWA is seeking public comment from interested parties concerning self-insurance as a viable and effective mechanism for demonstrating financial responsibility as required by the Motor Carrier Act of 1980. This rulemaking action is considered significant because of the public interest in the issue being considered. This rulemaking action will also address the issue of requiring all for-hire motor carriers of passengers to carry evidence of having obtained financial responsibility meeting the statutory minimums in any motor vehicle being operated in for-hire service. Legal Authority: 23 USC 141; 23 USC 154; 23 USC 315; PL 100-17, Sec 174

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The FHWA and the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) are amending the regulations on certification of speed limit enforcement in order to streamline the sanction process and to take into account the provisions mandated by section 174 of the Surface Transportation and Uniform Relocation Assistance Act of 1987 (STURAA). Section 174 of STURAA amended 23 U.S.C. 154 by giving the States the authority to increase, without loss of Federal-aid funds, the maximum speed limit to no more than 65 miles per hour

(mph) on certain Interstate System highways. A notice of proposed rulemaking will be issued proposing revisions to the sanction process contained in 23 CFR Part 659. A separate final rulemaking action has been issued in order to provide the States the authority to adjust the speed sampling and analysis plan required for determining the level of 55 mph noncompliance.

Abstract: The FHWA is considering amending the noise emission standards to add a new minimum distance of 31 feet from which to measure highway noise. FHWA is also considering eliminating the correction factor which allowed a variance for noise tests taken at hard sites, e.g., asphalt, compared to those taken at soft sites, e.g., grassy areas.

Significance: Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 23 USC 109(a)(b)(c); 23 USC 315

CFR Citation: 23 CFR 626; 23 CFR 625

Abstract: The existing regulation on pavement design would be modified to eliminate unnecessary requirements and duplicative provisions. Currently the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) uses the "American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials (AASHTO) Interim Guide for Design of Pavement Structures, 1972," Chapter III Revised, 1981, to evaluate the adequacy of the proposed pavement designs for Federal-aid projects. AASHTO has approved a new Pavement Design Guide. FHWA will solicit public comment on the revised guide and evaluate whether the revised guide should be adopted for application on Federal-aid projects.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 49 USC 2314; 49 USC 3102; Section 414 of STAA of 1982

CFR Citation: 49 CFR 393

Legal Deadline: Statutory, April 2, 1988.

Abstract: Section 414 of the Surface Transportation Assistance Act of 1982 (Pub. L. 97-424) states that Congress declares the visibility on wet roadways in the Interstate System should be improved by reducing splash and spray from truck tractors, semitrailers and trailers. Congress instructed the Secretary to establish, by regulation, minimum standards with respect to the performance and installation of splash and spray suppression devices on truck tractors, semitrailers and trailers. Further, Congress mandated that all vehicles in use 5 years from date of enactment be equipped with such devices. The revisions to 49 CFR 393 will implement this mandate. This rulemaking is considered significant because of its economic impact on the motor carrier industry. Section 205 of the Surface Transportation Assistance Act of 1987 (P.L. 100-17) establishes a deadline of 4/2/88 for final action unless the Secretary determines that insufficient technology exists with which to base a final rule.

As part of the Surface Transportation Reauthorization bill, introduced for consideration in the last Congress and reintroduced in this session, the Administration proposed a provision that would amend the existing splash and spray suppression-devices statute. The amendment is intended to give greater flexibility to the Department in dealing with this problem and to ensure that the Department's final decision can take the costs and benefits of various alternatives fully into account.

Abstract: The FHWA is proposing to provide a statement of FHWA interpretation and policy addressing the size and weight provisions contained in the Tandem Truck Safety Act of 1984 (TTSA) which amended the Surface Transportation Assistance Act of 1982 (STAA). This action addresses (1) conditions under which segments of the National System of Interstate and Defense Highways may be deleted from the National Truck Network, (2) conditions affecting the designation of new routes on the Federal-Aid Primary System as part of the National Truck Network, and (3) new provisions for 102-inch wide 28 1/2-foot semi-trailers. Abstract: Section 206 of the Motor Carrier Safety Act of 1984 (Act) directs the DOT to reissue regulations pertaining to commercial motor vehicle safety. On November 23, 1984, the FHWA published a final rule at 49 FR 46145 regarding Hours of Service in order to comply with an opinion of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit. A docket was opened (MC-99-1) in order to request comments for further consideration of revisions to the requirement of the driver's record of duty status. Pursuant to section 206 of the Act, an ANPRM was issued (1/23/85; 50 FR 2998) and again requested comments regarding the requirement for recorded hours of service. This rulemaking action will incorporate all comments received to the above mentioned published rulemaking actions. This document will consider the possible elimination of certain items required on the driver's record of duty status and extending the 12-hour limitation in the 100 mile radius exemption to 15 hours or permitting a 50 mile radius rule as an option with the 15 hour rule. Abstract: The FHWA is proposing revisions to certain provisions established by the final rule on truck size and weight published at 49 CFR 23302 on June 5, 1984. This action proposes: (1) a definition for an automobile-transporter; (2) a minimum 75-foot overall length for a stinger-steered automobile-transporter; (3) the allowance of triple saddlemount combinations with a minimum length of 65 feet; and, (4) no overall length limitations for conventional tractor-semitrailer automobile transporters when the semitrailer is 48 feet in length. The purpose of this rulemaking action is to clarify and further define certain issues contained in the June 5, 1984, final rule.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 49 USC 3102; PL 98-554, Sec 110

CFR Citation: 49 CFR 393

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: This rulemaking action responds to section 210 of the Motor Carrier Safety Act of 1984. Section 210 requires the Department to open Part 393 of the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Regulations (FMCSR), which concerns the parts and accessories necessary for the safe operation of commercial motor vehicles for public comment and review. In essence, Part 393 is the basis for the vehicle inspection currently performed on vehicles operated by motor carriers subject to the jurisdiction of the DOT. Public comment has been requested pursuant to an ANPRM 01/10/85.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: PL 98-554, Sec 215; 49 USC 3102

CFR Citation: 49 CFR 385

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: Section 215 of the Motor Carrier Safety Act of 1984 requires the FHWA, in cooperation with the Interstate Commerce Commission, to establish a procedure to determine the safety fitness of owners and operators of commercial motor vehicles including persons seeking new or additional operating authority as motor carriers. Comments are being requested regarding the proposed changes in the current safety rating procedures and a new proposal for those carriers who have not previously been assigned a safety rating or who intend to be a new entrant into the motor carrier industry. It has been determined that this rulemaking action is a significant regulation under the regulatory policies and procedures of the Department of Transportation because of the total estimated indirect benefits that may result.

Legal Authority: 23 USC 315; 49 USC 2311(d); PL 99-591, Sec 324

CFR Citation: 23 CFR 658

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: An ANPRM had been issued requesting public comment on a petition to designate a particular combination of vehicles as specialized equipment under the provisions of section 411(d) of the Surface Transportation Assistance Act of 1982 (STAA). The final rule will now implement section 324 of the House Bill 5205 which was incorporated into law by section 302 of the Act Making Continuing Appropriations for Fiscal Year 1987, Pub. L. 99-591, 101 Stat. 3341, enacted on October 16, 1986. This section amended section 411(c) of the Surface Transportation Assistance Act of 1982 to authorize the "maxi-cube" vehicle to operate on the National Network in the same way as vehicles previously authorized by that section. The "maxi-cube" vehicle is a particular combination of vehicles described in the law. This action also withdraws the advance notice of proposed rulemaking (ANPRM) published at 50 FR 52940 (12/27/85) and 51 FR 7085 (Supplemental notice: 2/28/86) on the designation of the "maxi-cube" design as specialized equipment under section 411(d) of the STAA of 1982.

Abstract: The FHWA is proposing to revise its regulation on the accommodation of utility facilities and private lines on the right-of-way of Federal-aid and direct Federal highway projects to clarify requirements regarding utility use of Federal-aid highways and to modify the conditions under which certain types of utilities may be located longitudinally on Federal-aid freeways (Interstate highways). Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: PL 100-17, Title IV; 42 USC 4601 et seq

CFR Citation: 23 CFR 740

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: This rulemaking action will implement those provisions of Title IV of the Surface Transportation and Uniform Relocation Assistance Act of 1987 (STURAA) which are non-controversial. These amendments to the Uniform Relocation Act will primarily address the increases in the maximum specific dollar amounts paid by Federal, State and local agencies from project funds to persons who are forced to relocate by Federal or federally assisted projects. These revisions will be issued expeditiously so that displacing agencies who are currently authorized under State law can begin to provide the additional assistance provided by law. This rulemaking action is considered significant because of the substantial public interest involved. By taking this action, the FHWA is carrying out its responsibility as lead agency as required by STURAA.

Additional Information: An interim policy statement was published 6/6/83 (48 FR 25181) to implement acceleration methods for selected projects within existing regulations. Initially, FHWA had considered issuing a new regulation as a vehicle for accelerating Federal-aid projects pursuant to Section 129 of the STAA of 1982. However, it has been determined that the objectives of Section 129 can be best implemented by revisions to existing regulations. Therefore, separate regulations will not be issued regarding the acceleration program. This approach received the concurrence of Deputy Administrator Lamm on April 11, 1984. Abstract: The FHWA is requesting comments to a proposal to revise the National Bridge Inspection Standards (NBIS). The revised regulation would permit States to increase the maximum time interval between the inspections for certain types or groups of bridges, as opposed to retaining the mandatory 2-year interval as required by regulations currently in effect. The proposed revisions would also require that States identify those bridges having fracture critical members or bridges which warrant underwater inspection consideration. The proposed revisions would provide State highway agencies greater flexibility with which to use available inspection resources in a cost-effective manner. It is intended that the proposed revisions would encourage efficient use of resources while ensuring that the safety of the traveling public is protected.

Abstract: The FHWA issued an interim final rule to redefine "environmental restoration" as that term is used in FHWA's financial responsibility regulations. Legal Authority: 42 USC 3102; PL 98-554, Sec 206

Legal Deadline: Statutory, April 30, 1986.

Abstract: Section 206 of the Motor Carrier Act of 1984 (Pub. L 98-554) (the Act) directs the Secretary of Transportation to issue regulations pertaining to commercial motor vehicle safety. The Department has issued regulations, the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Regulations (FMCSR), on this subject under earlier authority (49 U.S.C. 3102). The purpose of this advance notice of proposed rulemaking (ANPRM) was to identify and solicit comment on specific changes which should be made to the FMCSR prior to reissuance in order to effectuate the purposes of the Act. The purposes of the Act are to ensure that: commercial motor vehicles are safely maintained, equipped, loaded and operated; the responsibilities of drivers do not impair their ability to drive safely; the physical condition of drivers is adequate to enable them to drive safely; and the operation of the vehicles does not have deleterious effects on drivers. This rulemaking has been a comprehensive effort, and thus the Agency has incorporated certain other regulatory actions which have been proposed but have not yet been completed. The purposes of this ANPRM have been served. (cont)

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 23 USC 315; PL 97-424, Sec 416; PL 98-554, Sec 105; PL 97-424, Sec 411; PL 97-424, Sec 412; PL 97-424, Sec 413

CFR Citation: 23 CFR 658

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: By this action, the FHWA is taking steps to implement the 12-foot-wide lane provisions contained in the Surface Transportation Assistance Act of 1982 (STAA) as amended by the Tandem Truck Safety Act of 1984 (TTSA). An ANPRM published 4/1/85 at 50 FR 12825 identified for re-examination specific routes on the National Network containing sections with lanes less than 12 feet wide in those States which do not otherwise permit 102-inch wide vehicles on the National Network, pursuant to State law. These States are Alabama, Florida, Kentucky, Maryland, Missouri, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Puerto Rico, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Virginia. After a review, FHWA has deleted highways with lane widths less than 12 feet wide found to be inconsistent with highway safety.

Abstract: This regulation establishes FHWA policy and sets forth coordination procedures for Federal-aid highway bridges which require navigational clearances. The revisions summarize existing policies and procedures regarding the construction of bridges over navigable waterways for the purpose of strengthening and improving the coordination between highway interests and waterway interests, and achieving cost-effective designs. In addition, the rulemaking incorporates the exact statutory language mandated by section 123(b) of the Surface Transportation and Uniform Relocation Assistance Act of 1987 (STURAA) concerning the need for U.S. Coast Guard permits for highway projects on certain minor waterways.

Abstract: Revised regulations require each State highway agency (SHA) to keep liquidated damage provisions current so that amounts recovered through contractor assessments would at a minimum cover SHA's average daily construction engineering cost attributable to the contract time overrun. Abstract: The FHWA amended its regulation on landscape development to implement a requirement for planting native wildflowers along Federal-aid highways as mandated by section 130 of the Surface Transportation and Uniform Relocation Assistance Act of 1987 (STURAA). Section 130 of STURAA amended 23 U.S.C. 319 by adding a requirement that at least one-quarter of one percent of funds expended for landscaping projects be used to plant native wildflowers. This provision requires every landscaping project to include the planting of native wildflower seeds and/or seedlings, unless a waiver has been granted.

Significance: Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: PL 100-17, Sec 135; 23 USC 315

CFR Citation: 49 CFR 310

Abstract: The FHWA regulation on bridge toll procedural rules has been rescinded because the provisions are obsolete. Section 135 of the Surface Transportation and Uniform Relocation Assistance Act of 1987 (STURAA) repealed the legislation providing for Federal regulation and review of toll increases on certain toll bridges. For this reason, Part 310 is no longer operative, and has been, therefore, rescinded.

Abstract: This standard, which is applicable to passenger cars, light trucks, and school buses, specifies requirements for the integrity of motor vehicle fuel systems. The purpose of the standard is to reduce deaths and injuries caused by fires which result from fuel spillage after motor vehicle crashes. This evaluation follows up and expands on a prior study on passenger cars which showed that, while the regulation was effective in preventing deaths and injuries, the incidence of crash fires appeared to be increasing. This evaluation will also provide the initial assessment of the regulation as it applies to light trucks. A review has determined that this rule has minimal effects on small entities, and therefore a Regulatory Flexibility Act review is not required. The rule will still be reviewed as a priority review item. Subsequent to completion of the study and provision for public comment, the Agency will consider whether changes should be made in the standard's requirements.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 49 USC 2314

CFR Citation: 49 CFR 583

Legal Deadline: None. Standard for new vehicles is now required to take effect one year after final rule is published.

Abstract: In accordance with the mandate of section 414 of the Surface Transportation Assistance Act of 1982, would establish minimum standards with respect to the performance of splash and spray suppression devices on truck tractors, semitrailers and trailers. Would also establish minimum standards with respect to the installation of splash and spray suppression devices on new vehicles. This regulation is significant because it is potentially controversial.

Additional Information: NHTSA's rulemaking would only affect new vehicles and equipment. However, section 414 of the Surface Transportation Assistance Act also mandates that the Department of Transportation establish minimum standards with respect to the installation of splash and spray devices for vehicles already in service. The Federal Highway Administration will conduct the rulemaking to satisfy that mandate. The Federal Highway Administration has classified its rulemaking as major. The costs of that rulemaking are expected to be much greater than NHTSA's rulemaking since (1) the population of vehicles in service is many times the annual production of new trucks, (2) a truck manufacturer will pay less per unit for each splash and spray suppression device when ordered in large quantities, and (3) the labor time to install the devices is far less for a new truck manufacturer, since it can be done at the assembly plant. In 1984, the Surface Transportation Assistance Act was amended to change the implementation date from 1/1/85, for new vehicles and 1/1/88, for vehicles in service, to one year after publication of the Final Rule for new vehicles & 3 years later for vehicles in service.

Significance: Regulatory Program

CFR Citation: 49 CFR 571.108

Abstract: Proposes a comprehensive review of headlighting requirements of FMVSS No. 108 which may be simplified, while being consistent with motor vehicle safety. The agency has concentrated its efforts into five principal areas. The first is the feasibility of a standard directed toward on-board original equipment headlighting performance rather than toward performance of individual aftermarket headlamps in a laboratory environment. The second is the desirability of specifications for headlamp life. The third concerns the necessity of dimensional specifications for headlamp equipment. The fourth is the issue of headlamp aim. The fifth is the elimination of obsolete photometric requirements.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 15 USC 1392 National Traffic & Motor Vehicle Safety Act of 1966; 15 USC 1407 National Traffic & Motor Vehicle Safety Act of 1966

CFR Citation: 49 CFR 571.121; 49 CFR 571.105

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: Would establish a new brake standard for all trucks, buses and trailers with a Gross Vehicle Weight Rating (GVWR) over 10,000 pounds. This standard would replace Standard No. 121, Air Brake Systems, and that portion of Standard No. 105, Hydraulic Brake Systems, that applies to vehicles with a GVWR over 10,000 pounds. It would also establish new requirements for heavy trailers having other than air-actuated brakes. In developing the standard, the agency will consider compatibility with international regulations. Research programs in support of this new standard and possible future upgradings of the standard will investigate such long-term advanced braking system concepts as antilock systems, automatic brake adjustors, load-sensing proportioning values, air driers, and retarders for heavy trucks, buses, and trailers. This rule is considered significant because of the level of public and Congressional interest. It is necessary to prevent and reduce the severity of accidents involving heavy vehicles by providing increased accident avoidance capability.

Abstract: An amendment to Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standard (FMVSS) No. 114 to prevent the inadvertent knocking out of gear of the gear shift lever and potential accidents, injuries and fatalities from vehicles rolling out of control. Legal Authority: 15 USC 2002

CFR Citation: 49 CFR 531

Abstract: General Motors (GM) and Ford have petitioned for reduction of the passenger car average fuel economy standards for Model Year 1986 and beyond. The Center for Auto Safety and the Environmental Policy Institute petitioned to raise the standards for Model Years 1987 through 1990. All of these petitions were addressed in rulemakings which reduced the standard from 27.5 miles per gallon (mpg) to 26.0 mpg for Model Years 1986 through 1988 (10/06/86, 51 FR 35594) Further rulemaking action, for Model Years 1989 and beyond, is undetermined at this time, pending potential legislative action to repeal or amend the CAFE legislation.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2025

Abstract: Establishes procedures to be followed by manufacturers in preparing and submitting petitions for exemptions from the vehicle theft prevention standard. Passenger motor vehicle manufacturers may petition NHTSA for these exemptions for vehicle lines whose standard equipment includes an antitheft device that is likely to be as effective as compliance with the vehicle theft prevention standard in deterring and reducing vehicle theft. Procedures are also established which the agency will follow in processing these petitions and in reaching determinations on whether they should be granted. CFR Citation: 49 CFR 571.108

Abstract: A petition was received from the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety (IIHS) on November 8, 1985. It requests that the Federal lighting regulation (FMVSS No. 108) be changed to allow installation of daytime running lights (DRLs) by original equipment manufacturers. Although the existing standard does not specifically prohibit DRLs, some changes to FMVSS No. 108 would be required to accommodate various suggested DRL configurations. NHTSA has exchanged information with Transport Canada on DRLs, and on the evaluation of effectiveness of various DRL configurations. Canada issued a proposed regulation which would require that new vehicles be equipped with DRLs. The agency would like to ensure that changes made in FMVSS No. 108 are compatible with the final technical specifications of Transport Canada. NHTSA plans to take action on the IIHS petition now that the Canadian NPRM is published. Proceeding is significant because of the importance of keeping pace with the Canadian action.

Abstract: Chrysler Corporation petitioned for a change to Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standard No. 112, Headlamp Concealment Devices. It requested that a requirement, for no light to be projected to the left or above the final position of a headlamp beam during the operation of a concealed headlamp from closed to open or vice versa, be changed to a performance test. Abstract: Volkswagen of America petitioned to change Federal Motor Vehicle Safety Standard No. 108, Lamps, Reflective Devices, and Associated Equipment to permit an additional standardized replaceable light source for motor vehicle headlamps. The type of light source proposed was that currently used in European headlamps, the type H-4. Review of the merits of the petition found that, as used in Europe, the light source was not capable of achieving the level of performance required of U.S. light sources and NHTSA subsequently proposed a U.S. version to be known as the type HB2, which would have interchangeability and performance aspects compatible with U.S. safety needs. Comments by the U.S. and foreign lighting and vehicle manufacturers led to a supplemental notice.

CFR Citation: 49 CFR 571.101

Abstract: Final rule amends Standard No. 101 to permit greater flexibility in the illumination and identification of controls and displays. The rule allows gauges to have a two-level lighting intensity, rather than being continuously variable over a wide range. It distinguishes between critical telltales, such as the turn signal indicators, which must be visible under all lighting conditions, and less significant telltales, such as the water temperature indicator, which are permitted the same range of intensity as gauges. The term, "informational readout display" is eliminated as no longer useful. To accommodate new display technologies, the rule permits the cancellation of messages, but requires them to be retrievable by the driver. The use of specified words to identify controls is permitted, as an alternative to the symbols now required for many controls. This action was initiated in response to several petitions for rulemaking.

Abstract: BMW of North America petitioned to permit headlamp mechanical aiming pad configurations specified for sealed beam headlamps with circular lenses to be used on replaceable bulb headlamps. Agency review of the petition found that no safety reason exists that should prohibit such a use and that the omission from the current standard was inadvertent. Abstract: Based on experience derived from the first year of administration of FRA's rule on Control of Alcohol and Drug Use in Railroad Operations, FRA has identified the need for additional capability to detect and control drug use that can impact on the safety of rail transportation. Accordingly, FRA is developing a proposed rule prohibiting any unauthorized use of controlled substances by employees subject to the current rule and mandating random testing of those employees for controlled substances. FRA has also conducted a special safety inquiry on the administration of the present rule and is developing a notice of proposed rulemaking to refine and enhance the existing regulatory requirements.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 49 USC 1602; 49 USC 1607

CFR Citation: 49 CFR 636

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: This regulation would require each transit agency that receives Federal financial assistance to have a maintenance program that states maintenance goals and objectives, provides for adequate maintenance for both fixed facilities and equipment, and provides for adequate personnel to meet the goals and objectives of the program. The proposed rule would also require that each transit agency retain or assemble information necessary for UMTA to review the transit agency's actual maintenance activities and make determinations on compliance as required by statute. This rule is significant because it concerns a matter on which there is substantial controversy. UMTA is reviewing this initiative to determine if rulemaking is practicable.

Timetable:

Additional Information: The Surface Transportation Assistance Act of 1982 (1982 STAA) included maintenance provisions in both sections 3 and 9 of the UMT Act. In the new section 9 block grant program, Congress provided that all recipients must certify that they will maintain facilities and equipment. UMT Act section 9(e)(3)(B). Section 9(g)(1) authorizes UMTA to determine by review or audit whether the recipients have complied with the maintenance requirement. The 1982 STAA also amended the section 3 discretionary grant and loan program by adding a provision that requires applicants to have sufficient capability to maintain facilities and equipment obtained with Federal assistance. UMT Act 3(a)2(A)(iii). This proposed regulation would provide UMTA with the information necessary to implement these provisions.

Abstract: The proposed regulations would unify the civil rights regulations that recipients of funds under the Urban Mass Transportation Act must meet. This rulemaking is significant because substantial public interest is anticipated. Abstract: This regulation, which is being developed in light of recent legislative action, would set out the process applicants for grants under the UMT Act (49 USC 1601 et seq.) and the Federal-Aid Highway Act should follow in order to be eligible for Federal financial assistance for major urban mass transportation investments. A major urban mass transportation investment is any project that involves the construction of a new fixed guideway segment, or extension of an existing fixed guideway, for use by buses or rail vehicles. Abstract: On October 1, 1982, UMTA rescinded its policy making advanced design bus specifications (The "White Book") mandatory for its grantees, but continued to mandate certain safety requirements applicable to advanced design buses. On October 16, 1984, UMTA issued an ANPRM on whether these safety requirements should be extended to other buses financed by UMTA. Abstract: This rulemaking, which implements section 3(f) of the UMT Act (49 U.S.C 1602(f)) would amend the existing charter bus operations regulations which were published on April 13, 1987. The amendment would concern the ability of certain non-profit entities to obtain handicap-accessible vehicles for charter service, or to receive service that otherwise would be unavailable to them.

Additional Information: On April 13, 1987, UMTA published its final rule on charter bus service. Under this regulation a recipient of UMTA funds is prohibited from providing any charter service using UMTA funded equipmen or facilities if there is at least one available charter operator willing and able to provide the charter service that the recipient of Federal funds proposes to provide. The House Appropriations Committee is concerned that under the requirements of this regulation, non-profit entities may not be able to afford the services of private charter operators, or, in the case of certain organizations, obtain the necessary handicap-accessible vehicles for charter service. This amendment would address those concerns.

2042. + OST-FAA INFORMATION RULES: STANDARDIZED REGULATORY FLEXIBILITY REQUIREMENTS

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 49 USC 1324; 49 USC 1371; 49 USC 1387

CFR Citation: 14 CFR 241; 14 CFR 298; 14 CFR 399

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The threshold for the aviation-information program for regulatory flexibility analysis is 60 seats or maximum payload of 18,000 pounds or less. Carriers operating aircraft under these limits are considered small carriers. FAA, on the other hand, uses a threshold based on the operational certificate requirements (Part 121 versus Part 135) with the threshold established at 30 seats or maximum payload of 7,500 pounds for a Part 135 certificate. FAA regulatory analysis for safety, congestion, etc., centers around the lower threshold which means much of the aviation economic information that they use has to be manipulated to fit their needs. This proposal of standardizing the threshold within the Department would save considerable resources and would eliminate much confusion in the air transportation industry. Most carriers, especially the newer ones, are familiar with FAA's requirements.

Legal Authority: 49 USC 1324; 49 USC 1371; 49 USC 1374; 49 USC 1386

CFR Citation: 14 CFR 298

Abstract: Currently commuter air carriers providing scheduled passenger service file two quarterly traffic schedules. One schedule summarizes nine traffic elements while the other schedule provides the origination and destination for all the carriers' on-line passengers. The Department is considering proposing a new traffic and market data system for certificated and foreign air carriers. This system could be used for commuter air carriers, providing the Department with one automated traffic and market data system for all carriers. This system would be less burdensome for the commuter air carriers and be more efficient for the user.

Significance: Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 49 USC 1324; 49 USC 1373

CFR Citation: 14 CFR 241

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The present definition of revenue and nonrevenue passengers for aviation reporting purposes is stated in terms of the exemptions for free and reduced-rate transportation in section 403(b) of the Federal Aviation Act of 1958. These definitions have become outmoded in the process of air-fare deregulation. In addition, first class and coach passengers are defined in terms of the type of fare paid with premium or standard fares being the benchmark for first class. With deregulation and the proliferation of new air fares in the marketplace, these definition may also be outmoded. The DOT is considering several options for revising these definitions.

2057. + PERFORMANCE-ORIENTED PACKAGING STANDARDS

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 49 USC 1803; 49 USC 1804; 49 USC 1808

CFR Citation: 49 CFR 172; 49 CFR 173; 49 CFR 178

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: To develop performance-oriented packaging standards and hazardous material classification based on the United Nations Committee of Experts on the Transport of Dangerous Goods. Also includes former non-significant rulemakings entitled "Consolidation of Specifications and Establishment of Performance Standards for Specification Bags" (Docket No. HM-153), "Specifications for and use of Specification 17 Steel Drums" (Docket No. HM-182), and "Organic Peroxide Requirements" (Project 186-72). The rulemaking is significant because a large number of specifications for packaging in the Hazardous Materials Regulations would be affected by this project. To a large extent the complexity and mass of the present Hazardous Materials Regulations are due to the detailed specification-type packaging standards contained in these regulations. To replace these with standards based on the U.N. system would both simplify the present regulations and facilitate international trade.

Abstract: DOT is proposing a rule that would require submission to DOT of nonstop market data from foreign carriers providing scheduled service between their home countries and the United States. This information is needed to evaluate existing bilateral agreements and reciprocity between U.S. and foreign countries. In addition international charter data currently collected from carriers may also be incorporated with reporting. This nonstop market data should replace much of the data currently collected by the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) on Form I-92. Although there will be some start-up costs, it is anticipated that over the long run there will be substantial savings for both the industry and the government. Abstract: Large U.S. air carriers file detailed service segment data in ADP format for scheduled operations, while smaller carriers file a condensed version on a hardcopy form. operations. Much of the data currently collected will be proposed for elimination. Also, much of the data reported on the hardcopy Form 41 T-Schedules can be eliminated, since data for these schedules can be extracted from the automated system. Further, the foreign air carrier traffic and market reporting (2137-AA97) will be incorporated into this automated system providing a uniform traffic and market system for the Department.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 49 USC 1803; 49 USC 1804; 49 USC 1809

Abstract: The current regulations require reports of hazardous material incidents. The objective of this review is to determine if the current data requirements can be modified to reduce the burden on industry but still result in the collection of the information needed for the hazardous materials safety program. Although safety programs, such as the one covered by these regulations, require data in order to function properly, it is possible that the data collection can be made less burdensome.

Legal Authority: 49 USC 1803; 49 USC 1804; 49 USC 1805; 49 USC 1806; 49 USC 1807; 49 USC 1808

CFR Citation: 49 CFR 172.101; 49 CFR 173.420

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: RSPA proposes to incorporate the existing industry packaging standards for Uranium Hexafluoride (UF6), specifically, American National Standards Institute Standard N 14.1 - 1982, into the Hazardous Materials Regulations (49 CFR Parts 100-179). Additionally, the requirement that UF6 be shipped in solid form is believed necessary to reduce the possibility of packaging failure and/or accidental release of UF6 during transportation. Because of the safety record exhibited by packagings filled and maintained in accordance with the ANSI Standard, development of new standards would be impractical. Incorporation of existing standards believed to be currently followed by industry is the most cost-effective method of establishing Federal standards and increasing conformity and safety in transportation of UF6. In response to numerous petitions for reconsideration from industry dealing with the use of existing packagings, the Department will reopen this specific issue in the new NPRM.

Because the requests are few in number and infrequent, it was determined that a rulemaking is not warranted. Therefore, the project was terminated on 6/1/87.

Abstract: This regulation would require provision of rate and cost data to MARAD so it can determine fair and reasonable rates for carriage of preference cargo in bulk vessels at the request of concerned Federal agencies. MARAD would calculate guideline fair and reasonable rates using a methodology which would base those rates on a vessel's actual or constructed costs as determined from data submitted by the operator. It would Abstract: The MARAD Administrator has redesignated trade routes determined to be essential for the promotion, development, expansion and maintenance of the foreign commerce of the United States, under authority in the Merchant Marine Act, 1936. There have been no substantial changes in essential trade route designations since the Act's enactment, other than inclusion of the U.S. Great Lakes. This action recognizes that in recent years major changes in shipping technology and U.S. trade patterns have emerged. It consolidated the former 29 essential trade routes and essential trade areas into fewer essential trade areas.

Abstract: The Department issued a rule in 1985 allowing vessels built with construction-differential subsidy (CDS) to repay that CDS in exchange for permission to operate in the domestic trade. Section 506 of the Merchant Marine Act of 1936, as amended, prohibits CDS vessels from operating in the domestic trade. The court delayed the effective date of its order to vacate the rule until July 16, 1987, to allow the Department to undertake further proceedings to address the problems of the merchant-marine trade. The Department initiated a rulemaking proceeding to replace the vacated rule by the court's deadline. This rulemaking addressed the decision by U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia which vacated the Department's CDS Repayment rule (50 FR 19170, May 7, 1985.)

2115. ● ADMISSION AND TRAINING OF MIDSHIPMEN AT THE UNITED STATES MERCHANT MARINE ACADEMY; PAY INCREASE

Significance: Nonsignificant

Legal Authority: 46 USC 1114(b); 46 USC 1295 to 1295g

CFR Citation: 46 CFR 310

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: MARAD is amending its regulations on merchant marine training to set the rate of pay that midshipmen at the United States Merchant Marine Academy (USMMA) receive while assigned to U.S.-flag merchant vessels for their one year of at-sea training to be the same as the monthly salary rate received by cadets/midshipmen at the other Federal academies. This will eliminate the need to amend these regulations periodically following a pay increase for cadets/midshipmen at the other Federal academies. The rulemaking was expedited to effect comparability in pay since the cadets/midshipmen at the other Federal academies have been receiving pay raises since the beginning of 1987.

2123. REVISION OF 31 CFR PART 205 (TDC NO. 1075), PAYMENTS BETWEEN THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT AND RECIPIENT ORGANIZATIONS

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 31 USC 6503

CFR Citation: 31 CFR 205

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: Revision of 31 CFR 205 will implement a new funding technique for Federal programs. The regulation would require a State to pay interest on Federal funds from the time they are deposited to the State's account until the time those funds are paid out to redeem checks or warrants or make payments by other means. This new "Checks Issued-Interest Remitted" technique was developed in response to statutes in some States that require that funds reside in a bank account prior to the issuance of checks. This revision also provides for the remittance of interest by the Federal Government if a State disburses its own funds for program purposes in accordance with Federal law, regulation or Federal/State agreement.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 5 USC 5525; 12 USC 391; 31 USC 321

CFR Citation: 31 CFR 210, (Revision)

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: Revision of 31 CFR 210 will expand the Direct Deposit/Electronic Funds Transfer (DD/EFT) program so that payments to meet Federal obligations can be made directly by DD/EFT. These include non-benefit payments such as vendor payments, miscellaneous payments, Internal Revenue Service (IRS) tax refunds, savings bonds, grants and loans. It will also include the payment of discretionary allotments of net pay of Federal employees' salaries by DD/EFT. Electronic funds thus transferred through the Federal Reserve System eliminate the possibility of checks being lost, stolen, or forged. The Federal Government's operating

Legal Authority: 31 USC 9301 to 9309

Abstract: Revision of 31 CFR Part 223, contains several substantive changes, as well as editorial changes and a realignment of sections. Substantive changes include: 1) a 3-year aging requirement in order to qualify for Treasury certification, 2) elimination of the alternative to use collateral for protecting excess risks, and 3) a requirement that all reinsurance on Federal bonds be placed with companies recognized by Treasury for reinsurance purposes. The proposed regulations provide provisions for exceptions to the aging and reinsurance regulations under certain circumstances. These regulations will help Treasury ensure that certified companies are capable of carrying out their surety contracts.

Abstract: As part of the recodification of Part 250, we plan to simplify, consolidate and or eliminate as many sections of regulations as possible placing particular emphasis on reducing the number of recordkeeping requirements, forms, and customs responsibilities. Wherever possible, we plan to utilize a proprietor's commercial records in lieu of requiring the proprietor to submit public use forms. 2135. NON-GENERIC DESIGNATIONS OF GRAPE WINE HAVING GEOGRAPHICAL SIGNIFICANCE

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 27 USC 205

CFR Citation: 27 CFR 4.24

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: This proposal expands the list of names officially recognized under 27 CFR Part 4, as being non-generic for the purposes of labeling and advertising of wine. This proposal is the result of petitions from numerous foreign countries for ATF recognition of non-generic wine designations which, in their view, denote distinctive national products. This proposal is also an outgrowth of one of the commitments made by the United States, in the Exchange of Letters of July 26, 1983 with the Commission of the European Communities, to work within the regulatory framework of 27 CFR Part 4, to prevent erosion of non-generic designations of geographic significance. For practical reasons it is being proposed that only "examples" of non-generic designations be listed in Part 4 while a complete list of all non-generic designations be listed in a new Part 12.

Abstract: ATF is proposing to amend the regulations by requiring the mandatory disclosure of FD & C Yellow No. 6 on labels of alcoholic beverages, because of evidence indicating the possibility of allergic-type reactions to the color additive. Significance: Agency Priority

CFR Citation: 27 CFR 5.22(b)(1)(iii); 27 CFR 19.346(b)

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: Current regulations do not provide for distilled spirits plant proprietors to mingle and still designate as straight whiskies of the same type produced at different distilleries or produced by different distillers. This project will allow such whiskies to be labeled as straight as long as the whiskies are produced within the same state. Their only alternative is to leave the regulations as they are and to not allow such whiskies to be mingled and designated as straight. We do not anticipate any extra costs to result from this change in regulations. This change will result in greater flexibility for distilled spirits plant proprietors.

Semiannual Agenda of Regulatory Actions

AGENCY: Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, Treasury.

ACTION: Semiannual agenda of regulations.

SUMMARY: As required by the Regulatory Flexibility Act and Executive Order 12291, the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency (Office) has prepared this semiannual agenda of its rules and regulations currently under review and scheduled for review. Regulatory actions taken since the publication of the Office's previous semiannual agenda on April 27, 1987 (52 FR 14695) are also included. It is expected that this semiannual agenda will enable the public to be more aware of, and allow it to more effectively participate in, the Office's regulatory activity.

ADDRESS: The mailing address for all contacts: Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, 490 L'Enfant Plaza East, SW., Washington, DC 20219.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For general information about this semiannual agenda, contact Nancy Lowther, Financial Analyst, Legislative and Regulatory Analysis Division, (202) 447-1177.

For additional information about a particular item on this semiannual agenda, contact the individual identified as the contact person.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Office has determined that none of the rulemakings discussed in this semiannual agenda requires a regulatory flexibility analysis; all entries have been determined not to have a "significant impact on a substantial number of small entities," and therefore are not subject to the provisions of the Act. Additionally, none of the rules is a "major" rule as defined by Executive Order 12291. Executive Order 12291 defines a "major" rule as one likely to result in:

(1) An annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more;

(2) A major increase in costs or prices for consumers, individual industries, Federal, State, or local government agencies, or geographic regions; or

(3) Significant adverse effects on competition, employment, investment, productivity, innovation, or on the ability of United States-based enterprises to compete with foreign-based enterprises in domestic or export markets.

Dated: August 18, 1987.

Robert L. Clarke,

Comptroller of the Currency.

Legal Authority: Sec 1, 77 Stat 668; 12 USC 92a; 12 USC 481

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 9

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: Comments in response to a prior rulemaking Final Rule Docket No. 80-16 (46 FR 71571) published October 29, 1980 included recommendations that additional amendments should be made to 12 CFR Part 9. The Office believes that the issues raised by the commenters can best be addressed through a comprehensive review of its regulations concerning national bank fiduciary powers and collective investment funds. The Office requested comments from the public as to the desirability and feasibility of a comprehensive review of its trust regulations pertaining to collective investment funds, including specific matters which should be addressed. In view of the favorable disposition of litigation impacting on the fiduciary powers of national banks and collective investment funds (Investment Company Institute v. Clarke, 789 F.2d 175 (2d Cir. 1986), cert. denied, 55 U.S.L.W. 3316 (U.S. Nov. 4, 1986); Investment Company Institute v. Conover, 790 F.2d 925 (D.C. 2159. SECURITIES EXCHANGE ACT DISCLOSURE RULES

Legal Authority: 15 USC 78

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 11, (New Subsection)

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The proposed rule would require that more detailed and meaningful information be provided to shareholders and this Office concerning banks' loan portfolios, including loans to borrowers in foreign countries experiencing liquidity problems, other sources of income and exposure to risks. This will assist shareholders in evaluating proposals for mergers, consolidations, acquisitions and similar matters and will assist the Office in administering and enforcing the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 as it applies to national banks. The Office considered not proposing the additional amendments or proposing them as a general guide rather than a rule. However, the Office determined it was appropriate to propose the additional requirements as amendments to part 11 because the Office believes the proposed requirements will help to clarify the types of disclosures which the Office, shareholders and the public would consider material in analyzing various Exchange Act filings and statements. The effect on small entities will be considered in the development of this rulemaking

2160. INVESTMENT SECURITIES REGULATION

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1 et seq; 12 USC 24(7)

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 1

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: The Office proposes to amend this regulation to provide adequate safeguards for the purchase of mortgage-backed securities by national banks for their own accounts. The proposal will require that issues of such securities, in order to be eligible for purchase by national banks, must satisfy the Office's standards of investment quality and marketability. The proposal is considered a desirable alternative to leaving national banks without guidance in this area. The effect on small entities will be considered in the development of this rulemaking.

Abstract: The Office proposes to amend 12 CFR 5.33 to set forth the Office's merger proxy statement filing requirements for banks that do not have a class of equity securities registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act"), and to specify the disclosure that is required of such banks for various types of merger transactions. This proposal may also include an amendment to relevant portions of 12 CFR 11.590 so as to clarify the Office's merger proxy requirements for Exchange Act registered banks and to ensure that these requirements will be consistent with those to be proposed at 12 CFR 5.33. These actions are expected to assist bank merger applicants in preparing their merger proxy materials, which are subject to Office review and clearance pursuant to the Office's merger procedures. This statement would include two consecutive years' comparative financial statements. The information to be disclosed is currently publicly available from the Call Report. The bank would have the option of including a narrative discussion of matters they deem important. The bank would notify shareholders along with the annual meeting notice and depositors and potential depositors via a lobby poster in the main office and each branch. SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

Public Law 96-354, the "Regulatory Flexibility Act" (RFA) and Executive Order (E.O.) 12291 of February 17, 1981, "Federal Regulations," require semiannual publication, in April and October of each year, or an agenda of regulations which are "likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities" and "major" regulations, respectively. The RFA and E.O. 12291 also require agencies to include in their agendas currently effective rules which are under agency review. Customs agenda includes a brief abstract of each regulatory project ("project") being considered, an indication of whether the project will have an RFA impact, the section(s) of the Code of Federal Regulations affected, the legal authority for the action being taken, the name, title, and telephone number of an agency contact and, where applicable, an approximate timetable of completing action on any project for which Customs has published a notice of proposed rulemaking. In addition, the status of projects referred to in previously published agendas is shown. It has been determined that none of the projects listed as being under development meets the standards required of a "major" regulation provided in E.O. 12291.

General statutory authority for the development or review of regulations relating to Customs matters is found in section 301, title 5, United States Code (5 U.S.C. 301), and in sections 66 and 1624, title 19, United States Code (19 U.S.C. 66, 1624). When appropriate, additional specific statutory authority is indicated as the legal authority for the project.

Dated: August 6, 1987.

Harvey B. Fox,

Acting Director, Office of Regulations and Rulings.

This grant of authority is effective, however, only if and so long as an implementing agreement is in effect between the possession at issue and the United States which provides for elimination of double taxation, prevention of evasion or avoidance of U.S. tax exchange of information, and other administrative matters.

2206. CUSTOMS LIMITATION ON TAXPAYER'S BASIS IN PROPERTY IMPORTED FROM RELATED PERSONS

Legal Authority: PL 99-514, Sec 1248

CFR Citation: 26 CFR 1

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: Prior to the Tax Reform Act of 1986 importers could claim a transfer price for customs purposes that was too low to be consistent with the price they claim for income tax purposes. Section 1248 of the Tax Reform Act of 1986 addressed this problem by enacting Section 1059A of the Internal Revenue Code, under which importers cannot claim a transfer price for income tax purposes that is higher than would be consistent with the value they claim for customs purposes. Regulations will be needed to provide rules for coordinating customs and tax valuation principles. It is anticipated that as a result of Section 1059A of the Internal Revenue Code, some taxpayers will claim higher transfer prices for customs purposes. No estimate has been made of the revenue.

Legal Authority: 26 USC 7805 Internal Revenue Code of 1986; 26 USC 1503(d) Internal Revenue Code of 1986

CFR Citation: 26 CFR 1

Legal Deadline: None.

Abstract: If a U.S. Corporation is subject to a foreign country's tax on worldwide income, or on a residence basis as opposed to a source basis, any taxable loss it incurs cannot reduce the taxable income of any other member of a U.S. affiliated group for any other taxable year. Where a corporation is subject to foreign tax on a residence basis, then for U.S. purposes, its loss will be available to offset income of that corporation in other years, but not income of another U.S. Corporation. Regulations may exempt a U.S. corporation from this rule to the extent that its losses do not offset the income of foreign corporations for foreign tax purposes.

Abstract: Prior to the Tax Reform Act of 1986, inhabitants of the Virgin Islands satisfied their U.S. tax liability by filing a return with the Virgin Islands. The Tax Reform Act of 1986 repealed the inhabitant rule to correct an erroneous interpretation of its operation in connection with the Virgin Islands mirror code. Section 1274 of the Tax Reform Act of 1986 clarifies the filing obligations of individuals in the Virgin Islands. Bona fide residents of the Virgin Islands are required to file only one return with the Virgin Islands in which they report worldwide income and identify the sources of income from the Virgin Islands will be required to file two identical tax returns one with the US and one with the Virgin Islands and pay a pro rata amount of tax to each. Regulations are needed to clarify who qualifies as a bona fide resident. It is anticipated that the regulations will provide a facts and circumstances test for determining bona fide resident status. It is unknown what the operational costs will be.

This regulation project will amend the regulations under section 408 to conform them to the reporting requirements announced in the news release. In addition, section 147 of the Tax Reform Act of 1984 amended section 408 (i) of the Code to require that contributions be identified as to the taxable year to which they apply. Abstract: The regulations would provide rules for determining the amount of and recapturing overall foreign losses. An overall foreign loss under any one of the separate limitations on the foreign tax credit may offset the taxpayer's United States tax on United States source income in the year of the loss. The recapture rules provide that a portion of the taxpayer's foreign taxable income under the same limitation in subsequent years is to be recharacterized as United States source income, thereby reducing the taxpayer's foreign tax credit and preventing a double tax benefit from the loss.

Abstract: The regulations will establish procedures for taxpayers by which they must notify the Service of a change in foreign tax liability for a taxable year for which they claimed the foreign tax credit. The regulations provide special rules for redetermining the taxpayer's United States tax liability when the dollar value of the foreign currency fluctuates between the time for which the foreign tax credit is originally claimed and the time for which the foreign tax credit is redetermined. [FRL-3263-2]

Regulatory Agenda

AGENCY: Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: EPA revises the Regulatory Agenda semiannually and it appears in the Federal Register each April and October. It provides specific information on the status of regulations that are under development, revision, and review at the Agency. The agenda is published to keep interested parties informed of the progress of EPA regulations.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Angela Tyler, (202) 382-7205.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Statutes Covered in the Agenda

The statutory areas covered in the agenda are:

Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA)
Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetics Act (FFDCA)
Toxic Substances Control Act (TSCA)
Asbestos Hazard Emergency Response Act (AHERA)
Clean Water Act (CWA)
Marine, Protection, Research, and Sanctuaries Act (MPRSA)
Atomic Energy Act (AEA)
Safe Drinking Water Act (SDWA)
Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA)
Hazardous and Solid Waste Amendments (HSWA)
Clean Air Act (CAA)
Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act (CERCLA)
Superfund Amendments and Reauthorization Act (SARA)
General -- Other Acts (including grant and procurement regulations and regulations that cut across several program areas)

Organization of the Agenda

The agenda is organized by statute, in the order of the statutes listed above. In a few cases, the agenda combines regulations with differing statutory authorities that have closely-related subject matter. For example, the Asbestos-in-Schools Inspection, Abatement, and Disposal regulation is written under AHERA, but appears with regulations under TSCA.

Within each statutory listing, the regulations are ordered numerically, by section number of the authorizing legislation. For example, all RCRA regulations under section 3001 appear before those under section 3006.

Within each statutory area the entries are further divided into four categories: (1) Prerule Stage; (2) Proposed Rule Stage; (3) Final Rule Stage; and (4) Completed Actions (regulations that EPA is deleting from the agenda because the Agency has completed, withdrawn, or postponed them indefinitely). Detailed information on each of these sections is presented below.

Appendix A includes a list of abbreviations of terms used in this document.

I. Prerulemakings

Prerulemaking actions include activities intended to determine whether or how to initiate rulemaking. These activities include anything that influences or leads to rulemaking, such as advance notices of proposed rulemaking; significant studies or analyses of the possible need for regulatory action; requests for public comment on the need for regulatory action; or important pre-regulatory policy proposals.

This section also includes existing EPA regulations that are now under review. The purpose of such reviews is to determine whether the Agency should revise the rule, rescind it, or leave it unchanged. When finished, these reviews will appear in the completed section of the agenda. If EPA decides to revise or rescind the regulation, the action will appear in the proposed rule section of the next agenda, which will state the timetable for completing the revision or rescission.

For each regulation under review, the agenda provides the title, a short abstract, legal authority, CFR reference, any analysis EPA is preparing, contact person, and the schedule for completing the review. It also indicates the "review authority," which may be different from the regulation's statutory authority. EPA reviews regulations under various mandates, and some reviews satisfy more than one of these mandates. The principal mandates are:

Executive Order 12498 is intended to establish annually the Administration's Regulatory Program. It defines priority activities that Federal Departments and Agencies will work on during the upcoming year. Its purpose is to minimize duplication and conflict among regulatory activities and enhance public understanding of the Administration's regulatory objectives.

Executive Order 12291 establishes the general policy that Federal Departments and Agencies should review their regulations to ensure that the costs of the regulations are justified by the benefits of the regulation.

The Regulatory Flexibility Act requires that Federal Departments and Agencies review existing regulations that have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities, including small businesses, small organizations, and small governments, at least once every ten years. EPA invites public comment on the need to revise the list of regulations EPA is reviewing under the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

Reviews under the RFA are identified by a "Yes" in the "small entity" category. When the Agency completes reviews of regulations with a significant impact on small entities, the agenda entry includes an abstract that announces the Agency's decision of whether to revise, rescind, or leave the regulation unchanged. This announcement complies with the RFA and EPA's July 16, 1981 plan (46 FR 36930) for reviewing regulations under the Act.

The Paperwork Reduction Act requires Federal Departments and Agencies to review its information collection activities to assure that they need and will use the information and manage it efficiently. They must also ensure that the information to be collected is of high quality, appropriate for its intended use, and does not already exist at EPA or at some other Federal agency. In addition, the Act requires agencies to review the cost of collecting the information, so that it will be held to a minimum for both the respondent and the agencies.

II. Proposed and Final Rules

EPA generally lists regulations in the agenda once they are within a year of scheduled publication as a notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) or final action. Very important regulations under development will usually appear even if the scheduled publication dates are more than a year away.

Proposed and final rules appear as: (a) Actions that will create new CFR parts, subparts, or subsections; or (b) actions that revise or amend already existing CFR parts, subparts, or subsections. The word "revision" will appear in parentheses after the title of each regulation undergoing revision. All regulations appearing in the agenda for the first time are marked with bullets (●).

This section includes all "significant" EPA regulations. Some are priority regulations under development that are subject to Executive Order 12498; or the Agency has designated for priority development or revision.

However, the listings exclude: (a) Specialized categories of actions (such as EPA approvals of State plans and other actions that do not apply nationally); and (b) routine actions (such as pesticide tolerances and minor amendments to existing rules).

For each proposed and final regulation, the agenda includes:

- Title
- Priority classification (if applicable)
- Legal authority
- CFR reference
- Legal deadline
- Short abstract
- Analysis section (if the Agency is preparing a Regulatory Impact Analysis and/or a Regulatory Flexibility Analysis)
- Timetable of existing and scheduled actions
- Reference to small entity impacts
- Agency contact, and
- Additional information section

The additional information section includes the FTS phone number for the Agency contact. It also includes the Start Action Request number, which is assigned to the regulation for internal tracking purposes.

III. Completed Actions

These are actions that appeared in the last agenda, which EPA is deleting because they are completed or are no longer under consideration. Information on these regulations and reviews of regulations is less detailed than for those that are still under consideration. Generally, entries include: (1) An explanation of why the Agency is deleting the regulation from the agenda, and (2) the publication date and Federal Register citation.

John M. Campbell,

Acting Assistant Administrator for Policy, Planning, and Evaluation.
